MacArthur Ordered To Prepare To Take Offensive

General Will Command United Nations in Big Drive against Japanese

American Is Given Title of "Commander-in-Chief of General Headquarters of Pacific"

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, April 19 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was under orders tonight from the United Nations to prepare to take the offensive against the Japanese as commander-in-chief of all land, sea and air forces in the southwest Pacific.

Headquarters of the hero of the Philippines announced that the United States, Australia, the United Kingdom and The Netherlands had agreed on the scope of the command and had conferred on him the new title of "commander in chief of general headquarters of the southwest Pacific area."

The official announcement did not mention New Zealand, but Australia's Prime Minister John M. Curtin in a congratulatory letter to MacArthur said the general was assuming command by charter of the four governments, plus New Zealand.

New Zealand Plans Secret
Australia and New Zealand, the island dominions 1,200 miles across the Tasman sea from Australia, long have considered their defense forces as a unit but the United States and Britain have refused repeatedly to say specifically whether New Zealand was under MacArthur's command. This, they said, is a military secret.

Curtin disclosed that MacArthur's directive specifically instructed the general to prepare to take the offensive.

A headquarters spokesman said the delay in receiving the directive did not mean that time had been lost since MacArthur's arrival in Australia. Today's announcement merely formalized what already has been done. Until now, MacArthur had been described officially as supreme commander, rather than commander-in-chief.

Little Fighting Sunday
Meanwhile the fighting forces were relatively quiet, and the only reported military action was the continuous reconnaissance off Australia as the Allies maintained ceaseless vigil against Japanese bases stretched 1,400 miles around (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Allied Aviators Raid Japs Ships

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS in AUSTRALIA, Monday, April 20 (AP)—Allied planes made large-scale assaults upon Japanese shipping yesterday at Rabaul, New Britain, and a direct hit was reported on one vessel.

All Allied aircraft returned safely to their bases despite heavier enemy fighter opposition than encountered recently.

Owen Confirmed

CANBERRA, April 19 (AP)—The appointment of Sir John Owen, justice of the high court in Australia, as minister to the United States has been approved by King George. Prime Minister John Curtin announced tonight.

Life-Term Convicts Seek Chance To Enter War as Suicide Group

MCLESTER, Okla., April 19 (AP)—Fighters, incarcerated, an organization of Oklahoma life-term convicts, appealed to President Roosevelt today for a chance to perform suicide missions in the war.

"Please help these men," the group appealed in a letter to the White House, "to redeem themselves in their own eyes—as well as in the eyes of the world."

Fighters, incarcerated, was inspired by a recent report that the old battleship Oregon would be refitted and manned by a suicide squadron to harass the Japanese.

Some Are Veterans
"That's a job which would just suit us," said a spokesman for the organization, some of whose members have served in the army and navy and won honorable discharges. The letter to the president pointed out that the convicts would make an ideal skeleton crew for the Ore-

War Production Boost in India Sought by Grady

Former Assistant U. S. Secretary of State Now in Delhi

By PRESTON GROVER
NEW DELHI, India, April 19 (AP)—Dr. Henry F. Grady, former assistant United States secretary of state who is directing efforts to increase India's war production, will begin a series of conferences with Indian industrialists tomorrow for more munitions for the United Nations.

With the Japanese advancing through Burma, urgency has become Grady's watchword because next to Burma lies India's frontier and immediately behind that frontier lies the greatest producing area in India—the Calcutta-Jamshedpur region in Bengal.

Grady already has found some problems which needed settling before the real job of determining which of India's industrial wants could be supplied quickly by the United States.

Suspicious of U. S.
Both India and British operators of various industrial plants here harbored the suspicion that United States activity in India was in part at least, aimed at getting in to share in India's wealth after the war.

The State department sought to quiet such feelings even before Grady and his commission of economists arrived. Grady took further steps by issuing a statement asserting the mission's work is "directly related to the common war effort of the United Nations and in no (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Russia Reports Repulse of Nazi Counter-Attacks

Soviets Also Say They Have Widened Breach in Finnish Line

KUIBYSHEV, April 19 (AP)—German planes made mass attacks on the Red army today in the heaviest raid of the year, while the Soviets widened a breach in the Finnish lines above Leningrad after fighting fiercely through enormous minefields. As many as fifty German planes assaulted single objectives along the thawing, 2,000 mile battlefield.

The Nazi bombers blasted at railway stations, airdromes and front line positions, and were reported covering tank attacks on the southern front to restore positions pierced by the Russians.

A front line dispatch said the tanks were repelled by artillery, but that most of the Russian gunners had perished in their victory.

Pravda, official Communist newspaper, declared Red army parachute troops had landed behind the German rear in an unidentified sector and predicted that Soviet paratroopers would operate in full force in the spring.

A western front dispatch said a cavalry unit slashed forward along a railway after capturing a village.

New German Plane
Mikhail Gromov, who gained fame in a flight from Moscow to California via the North Pole, said the Germans had promised to use a new airplane in their advertised offensive which was speedier than anything the world knows, but that it had not yet appeared.

After breaking through the Finnish position on the Karelian isthmus, the Russians said that fierce fighting developed with the Finns throwing tanks, motorized units and heavy artillery into the fray in a vain effort to stem the attack.

Numerous Finnish counter-attacks were reported hurled back with heavy losses in men and material. The Russians said the minefields had restricted the speed of their advance.

Bread Mold Used By Scientists in Producing Sugar

New Method May Prove of Great Help in War Effort

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19 (AP)—Bread mold, one of the lowest forms of life, has been induced into service in the nation's anti-offense effort.

Three Iowa state college scientists, one of them a student from China, announced today prior to the opening meeting here tomorrow of the American Chemical Society that they had found a process for converting the starch of grains into sugar with the mold, then fermenting it with yeast to produce alcohol, which in turn is used in the production of gunpowder.

Will Provide Firepower
Dr. Lu Cheng Hao, Dr. L. A. Underkofler and Dr. Ellis I. Fulmer, said that utilization of corn and wheat will not only supply the army and navy with vital firepower in the war but also relieve the sugar shortage.

"It is because of the allocation of 1,000,000 tons of sugar for alcohol production that sugar rationing has become necessary," they declared, and "to the extent that an adequate supply of grains can be supplied to the alcohol industry more sugar can be made available for human consumption."

Application a Success
As the result of application of the bread mold process "many million bushels of corn have been released for conversion to alcohol and recently more millions of bushels of wheat have been released for the same purpose."

This increased use of grains, large amounts of which the United States has already available as the result of normal granary plan, developed while he was secretary of agriculture, is insurance against loss of ships carrying molasses, which is ordinarily used in the production of industrial alcohol for conversion into gunpowder.

MARSHALL AND HOPKINS RETURN

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—General George C. Marshall (left) United States army chief of staff, returned by air today from his mission to Great Britain. He was accompanied by Harry Hopkins, presidential adviser. Both had been in London for conferences with British war leaders.

Four unidentified persons accompanied the pair. General Marshall left immediately for Washington. Hopkins was understood to have remained in New York.

General Marshall and the presidential adviser flew to London about two weeks ago.

NEW ALARMS KEEP JAPAN ON ALERT

Tokyo Jittery in Fear of Another Bombing Attack; Stories of Big Raid Are Conflicting

(By The Associated Press)
Two new air raid alarms kept a jittery Japan on the alert for four hours yesterday (Sunday) in fear of a repetition of the widespread attacks of Saturday in which the Japanese people for the first time in their modern history felt the bitter effects of war in their homeland.

While radio dispatches, most of them relayed by Berlin, put together a picture of destruction which appeared to have been larger than at first reported and indicated that the Japanese people still were at a loss as to the origin of the attacking planes, successive new alarms sounded in Central Japan, including Tokyo.

The first of these was for two hours, from 2 to 4 p. m. (noon to 2 p. m. Saturday, eastern war time), and the second also for about two hours beginning at 1 p. m. (11 p. m., Saturday, Eastern War time).

Berlin Reports Conflict

Berlin reports of the alarms were contradictory, one saying that no enemy planes were sighted, no anti-aircraft fire heard and that apparently the alerts were sounded for precautionary purposes, while another broadcast said that reconnaissance planes and fighters cruised over Tokyo but no "enemy raid" developed.

At least some Japanese factories meanwhile were disclosed to have been destroyed in the 1,300-mile sweep along the Japanese seaboard in which planes, described by Tokyo observers as American, scattered explosive and incendiary bombs on Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagoya—the capital, two chief ports

Two Big Steel Companies Charged With Violating Priorities Rules

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The War Production Board today charged the Carnegie-Illinois and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporations with "repeated, deliberate violations" of priorities regulations, including diversion of iron and steel to private customers "at the expense of the needs of the armed forces and the Maritime Commission."

Bills of complaint turned over to the Justice department accused the two companies of violations extending from May 31, 1941, until the present time.

Carnegie-Illinois, a subsidiary of United States Steel, is the largest steel producer in the United States, turning out more than a fourth of the country's entire output. It has twenty major plants in leading steel centers. Jones and Laughlin, with chief plants in the Pittsburgh

Pétain Asks His People To Back New Government

Says He Has Turned To Laval To Resume National Task

By TAYLOR HENRY
VICHY, UNOCCUPIED FRANCE.

April 19 (AP)—Aged Marshal Pétain told the French people today that he had turned once again to pro-Axis Pierre Laval to "resume the national task and that of European organization for which we together have laid the bases."

Broadcasting briefly to the nation, Pétain said the present French crisis is as decisive as "the most tragic moment of our disaster" when France was defeated by Germany.

"Come with a single heart, line up with the government," he appealed. "It will give you new reasons for faith and hope."

He defined publicly for the first time the duties and functions he, as chief of the state, had delegated to Laval, new chief of the government, and Admiral Jean Darlan, his former vice-premier.

Darlan in Command
"Admiral Darlan who remains my designated successor will assume the defense of our territory and our empire," he said.

"Pierre Laval will exercise under my authority direction of the internal and external policy of the country. It was with him that at the most tragic moment of our disaster, I founded a new order which must assume the arising again of France."

"Today, in a moment as decisive as that of June, 1940, I again find myself with him to resume the national task and that of European organization for which we together have laid the bases."

The marshal prefaced his brief broadcast with the simple statement "the new government has been formed." At the end, he told the French "your wisdom, your patience and your patriotism will aid us to triumph over our trials and our miseries."

Rep. Martin Asks End of Partisan Politics in War

Calls upon Leaders To Conduct Campaign as "Americans"

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, chairman of the Republican National committee, declared today that free constitutional government was "going to be maintained and perpetuated regardless of all political conspirators who may turn their brains and their hands to schemes to try to liquidate all critics."

At a woman's Republican Club luncheon in honor of members of the Republican National committee, Martin said:

"If and when the day ever comes that all criticism, appraisal, evaluation, and suggestions can be suppressed, and the bi-party system of governmental operation liquidated, constitutional government in the United States of America will be at an end."

Opposes Partisanship
Martin called for "an end to all attempts to inject partisan politics into the war effort," and called upon party leaders to "conduct the forthcoming campaign as loyal, patriotic Americans."

Martin said the committee would meet tomorrow to survey 1942 election prospects and undoubtedly would issue a statement on its war position.

A resolution by Wendell L. Willkie calls upon the committee to pledge no peace with the enemy "except peace with victory" and to "undertake now and in the future whatever just and reasonable international responsibilities may be demanded in a modern world."

Taft Urges War Unity
Another resolution by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio urges the committee to pledge "unqualified and aggressive support to the president in the prosecution of the war to complete, utter and final military and naval victory."

His resolution declares that "only (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

German High Command Reports Encirclement Of 4 Russian Divisions

BARES PLANE SHORTAGE

Official Broadcast Claims First Large Scale Victory in Weeks; Finns Counter Attack

Lieut. Gen. Breton B. Somervell, army supply chief, is shown during his inspection of an eastern armaments plant. Addressing the workers, Gen. Somervell declared that plane and ship production is still not great enough, and that workers and industry "will have to fight with more than half measures or half hearts."

The scene of the bitter battle which started April 10 was given only as somewhere on the central front, the troop and shell-churned battlefield West of Moscow.

Report Other Gains
Other gains in the central and northern sectors were announced in the high command's regular communiqué. It added that "at some points the enemy continued his attacks and thrusts in vain."

Air attacks "directed against the naval port of Sevastopol and Port installations on the Caucasian coast" also were announced.

The special war bulletin said the action against the four encircled Russian divisions was carried out under difficult conditions by reinforcements brought up through eodden fields for the onslaught against heavily fortified positions.

Three Red Attacks Crushed, Finns Say
HELSINKI, Finland, April 19 (AP)—Finnish forces crushed three heavy Soviet attacks, supported by armored units and directed against the Svir power station along the canal midway between Lake Ladoga and Lake Onega, as the Russian offensive on the Anus sector went into its second week yesterday, the newspaper Helsingin Sanomat reported today.

The newspaper said present fighting on the front northeast of Leningrad would prove one of the most glorious chapters in Finnish war annals when the full story can be told. Severity of the fighting is indicated by the Russians' loss of 1,000 to 2,000 killed every day since the drive started.

Further east, a communiqué said, two Red army battalions became wedged between the Finnish positions and were smashed. Six officers and 138 men, the only survivors, surrendered.

Fifty Marooned By Record Storm

DENVER, April 19 (AP)—More than fifty persons were rescued today from a cabin and automobiles in which they were marooned in the mountainous country west of Colorado Springs yesterday by the worst snowstorm since 1913.

From three to four feet of snow buried the crippled creek-divide-florissant section of Central Colorado.

Men on horseback from Cripple Creek bore to safety twenty persons who took refuge in a cabin Saturday noon. Highway patrolmen brought out some thirty others who spent the night in their stalled automobiles west of divide.

Tydings Sees Encouraging Signs Of Great Speed-Up in Production

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—Senator Millard E. Tydings said in a radio address today there were "many encouraging signs which show that the government and the industries of the United States are more and more girding themselves for a vigorous prosecution of the war."

He added if the rate of increase continued throughout 1942—and he said he believed it would—the production of weapons and materials for war purposes in the United States would reach "phenomenal proportions."

Sees Improvement in 1943
"It is generally recognized that one reason for the many defeats and reverses inflicted upon the United Nations so far has been shortages of necessary war materials—planes, tanks, guns, and so on—with which to attack the Axis forces."

Tydings cited as "another encouraging sign of more concerted war effort" the growing support in the nation and in Congress for eco-

"The first four months of 1942 have been on the whole unfavorable for the United Nations, and favorable for the Axis powers," he said. "But so far as the United States is concerned, by 1943 there should be no such shortages."

Tydings warned there was the problem of transporting the goods to the places they were needed. "The building of ships is likely to become the main production problem of the nations," he continued, "particularly now as our industrial plants produce, and our railroads transport to our seaports these vast stores of war materials for use in foreign countries."

FDR To Outline War Labor Policy During This Week

President Preparing Special Message in Effort To Curb Inflation

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, April 19 (P)—President Roosevelt may outline his war labor policies in a general message to Congress this week proposing inflation controls.

Assurance that such a message was being prepared apparently had paved the way for an agreement in the Senate tomorrow to postpone until April 27, debate on labor legislation.

The White House was understood to have asked a week's delay which could be obtained only by consent of Senator Connally (D-Tex.) to hold in abeyance for that time his motion to take up his labor bill. The measure would give the government authority to seize strike-bound war plants and would freeze labor relations in such concerns.

Connally Remains Silent
While Connally was silent as to his intentions, friends said it was likely the Texan would bow to White House wishes.

Connally's bill has been looked upon by advocates of changes in labor laws as the most likely vehicle to which could be attached amendments expanding the forty-hour week to forty-eight hours at regular pay, freezing open and closed shops and curtailing union initiation fees.

"The president has indicated opposition to suspension of the forty-hour week. He has said most war industry workers now are employed forty-eight hours or more. The present law requires payment of time and a half for all hours worked beyond forty."

There has been speculation that the president would recommend, as a check to inflation, over-all freezing of prices and wages, although the leadership of both the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor expressed "uncompromising opposition" to any plan for wage controls after a White House meeting last week.

Labor Views Awaited
Most legislators considered it unlikely that the president would recommend any action restricting closed or union shops—terms ordinarily applied when a labor contract requires that all employees of a concern be members of a union.

There was strong belief in some congressional quarters that Mr. Roosevelt was leaning to an inflationary control plan modeled upon the Canadian system, under which prices are pegged as of a certain date, but adjustments are authorized to level off inequalities.

Proposals from some officials for the imposition of stiff tax increases and compulsory war bond loans to the government, to reduce excess buying power, were understood to have given way to a campaign for voluntary sales of war bonds on an enormous scale.

The week's schedule for Congress also included these matters:
The Senate patents committee will resume public hearings on the proposal to grant the president authority to seize or require use of any patent deemed vital to the war effort.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee will start hearings on the annual farm bill which passed the House more than a month ago.
House leaders will seek approval Monday of a Senate-House conference report on the $19,000,000,000 supplemental war appropriation which contains a provision to limit profits on war contracts.

The House Ways and Means committee has arranged to start drafting the new wartime tax measure expected to raise $7,610,000,000 of new revenue.

Americans Dropped Incendiary Bombs, Japanese Assert

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19 (P)—The Japanese controlled Saigon radio was reported by the CBS short wave listening station to have broadcast that most of the bombs dropped on Japanese cities by American planes were incendiaries.
CBS said that so far as it knew, this was the first direct statement to the effect that the bombing was of a type which Japan fears most—incendiary raids against her wood and paper-built cities.

The radio was quoted as saying: "Thanks to the activity of the auxiliary and anti-aircraft units, combined with the calm of the population, the damage was limited to a minimum."

"Except for a very few bombs, the enemy dropped mainly incendiaries weighing only twelve pounds which did not cause any great damage."

"The Japanese headquarters for the central region said in a communique that the enemy planes dropped incendiary bombs over six different points in the village (SIC) of Nagoya. In Kobe the enemy planes dropped incendiary bombs on three different points."

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

It is possible to exult over the reported bombing of Tokyo and the spectacular air raids on the invaders in the Philippines and at the same time wonder whether the current outburst of official and popular optimism is not overdue.

On the eve of a spring and summer struggle which promises to bring the war's supreme crisis, comes this series of sanguine statements.

Vice President Wallace—"By the last half of this year we shall be producing more war materials than any nation in the history of the world."

Secretary of War Stimson—"So far as the army is concerned, we are getting pretty near to the stage of being ready for an offensive."

Pass Axis Production
Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson—"The United States already has passed the Axis in production in tanks."

General George C. Marshall—"The time for action is near."
Donald M. Nelson—"We have passed the turning point," the United Nations having outstripped the foe in munitions output.

These public utterances of the past two or three days are removed from their context which included reminders that hard blows and dark days probably are immediately ahead as Hitler and his Allies in aggression make their supreme bid for world domination in 1942.

Their net effect at home, nevertheless, was to help generate a surge of optimism hardly warranted at the moment. Abroad, the effect the northern arc of Australia's outer islands.

The official announcement said: "By agreement among the governments of Australia, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands and the United States, the Southwest Pacific area has been constituted effective 2 p. m., Greenwich mean time, April 18."

MacArthur formally assumes command by virtue of that authority. The following command composed of the forces assigned to the southwest Pacific area by the respective governments have been created: "Allied land forces, commander Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey."

"Allied air forces, commander Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett."
"Allied naval forces, Commander Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary, U.S.N."

"United States forces in the Philippines, commander Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright."
"United States army forces in Australia (service command), commander Maj. Gen. Julian F. Barnes, U.S. Army."

Except for Blamey who is an Australian, all the commanders are United States officers.

MacArthur is expected to announce his staff shortly. It was assumed that Australian and Dutch liaison officers would be attached to Blamey's staff.

MacArthur's new command supercedes that of the "United States army forces of the Far East" while the "United States army forces of India and Australia" continue under Barnes, who was commander before Brett arrived in Australia.

A headquarters spokesman said that Blamey's recent appointments of commanders of the Australian army were made after consultation with MacArthur.
Vice Admiral Leary's new command supercedes his previous post as "allied commander in the Anzac area." The spokesman said he was unable to define geographically the southwest Pacific area.

Associated Press May Make Change In By-Laws Today

Annual Meeting in New York May Require Two Full Days

NEW YORK, April 19 (P)—The forty-second annual meeting of Associated Press members will be held tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel to consider among other things important suggested changes in the by-laws of the co-operative news-gathering agency.

A record attendance was indicated and there was a possibility that because of the subjects to be discussed the usual one-day session might be extended to two days. Approximately 600 members are expected.

The AP meeting precedes the fifty-sixth annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, opening Thursday.

In addition to acting upon the suggested changes in the by-laws, AP members also will elect six directors and consider three membership applications.

Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, will address the annual membership luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria grand ballroom at which AP President Robert McLean, of the Philadelphia Bulletin, will preside.

General Manager To Report
The annual report of Kent Cooper, AP general manager, will be read to the membership sessions before and after the luncheon.

In general the major suggested revisions of the by-laws, drafted by the special committee for revision of the by-laws, headed by John S. Knight, of the Detroit Free Press, contemplate broadened opportunities for acquisition of membership in the AP, redefinition of the historic right of protest, and election of members by a majority rather than by four-fifths of the membership.

The latter suggested revision would carry the stipulation that the prospective member reimburse any member or members for "loss of damage" as a result of his admission to membership.

The three applicants for membership are Marshall Field, Chicago Sun for the night report; Eleanor Medill Patterson, Washington (D.C.) Times Herald, for the day and night report; and the Tribune Company, Chicago Evening Tribune (new paper projected by the Morning Chicago Tribune), for the day report.

Six Directors Re-nominated
Six directors whose terms are expiring have been nominated for reelection as follows: W. H. Cowles, Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review; George B. Longan, Kansas City (Mo.) Star; Colonel Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune; L. K. Nicholson, New Orleans Times-Picayune; E. Lansing Ray, St. Louis Globe-Democrat; and Stuart H. Perry, Adrian (Mich.) Telegram.

Six additional nominees for the directorate are Raymond B. Bottom, Newport News (Va.) Daily Press; Eugene A. Howe, Amarillo (Texas) Globe; Grover Patterson, Toledo (Ohio) Blade; Hugh J. Powell, Coffeyville (Kan.) Journal; W. A. Rupp, Aberdeen (Wash.) World; and William B. Mathews, Tucson (Ariz.) Star.

Mathews and Perry are nominees for the directorship representing membership in cities of less than 50,000 population.
The report that factories had been destroyed was the first admission that anything except hospitals, schools and dwellings had suffered, although an official statement continued to stress that no war industries had been affected and to assert that the raid was a "complete failure."

Asahi said 140 schoolchildren were killed by bombs and another report, via Berlin, said more than thirty school children were machine-gunned, and other casualties caused by explosive and incendiary bombs dropped on hospitals and other places near Tokyo.

The Japanese newspaper Mivako warned the people that they must not "make light of enemy attacks" and predicted that "the enemy will continue guerrilla aerial attacks on a mission more to lower the people's morale than to destroy property."

Domei denied that there was even a single case of "confusion as neighborhood units comprising households as well as men, took their previously assigned stations with pumps, shovels, buckets and other fire fighting equipment."

"From February 25 to March 12 Jones and Laughlin produced approximately 570,000 feet of this pipe, of which only twelve per cent was delivered on rated orders, the remainder being manufactured on orders for civilian use bearing no preference ratings whatever."

added, the incendiary bombs were put out quickly.

Bases a Mystery

That the bases from which the raiders struck continued to be a mystery was evident in press statements. The newspaper Yomiuri said that "as long as the United States possesses aircraft carriers Japan must be prepared for future air raids," and the newspaper Asahi that "MA 40" bombers were used.

"MA 40" bombers, also referred to in a Berlin broadcast as "Martin bombers," were described by Asahi as a medium sized bombing plane carrying a crew of five with a maximum speed of 300 miles per hour.

"MA 40" bombers are not listed in standard reference works on warplanes. The Martin B26 medium bomber, in use by the United States army, is too large to be flown from a navy aircraft carrier.

Moreover, it is not reputed to have the range to strike from any known land bases near Japan and return. The one-way trip from the nearest islands in the Aleutians to Tokyo is nearly 2,000 miles. The distance from the Philippines is about the same distance, while the distance from any probable bases in China is about 1,400 miles.

Major Yoshimitsu of the Japanese air force was quoted by Berlin as saying that the raiders "evidently started from a very remote base" and "therefore were unable to carry more than one-half to one ton of explosives."

Report 9 Planes Shot Down
Asahi said three Martin bombers had approached Tokyo from the north and five from the east at a height of 24,000 feet, although a communique Saturday claimed that nine raiding planes were shot down.

Despite continued official minimizing of the effects of the attacks, there were other hints that damage might have been considerable.

Thus Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo was disclosed to have been received by Emperor Hirohito late Saturday evening "after he had returned from a tour of inspection of the prefectures north of Tokyo."

Although he was said to have reported "on the successful repulse of the air attacks," he then conferred with Home Minister Michio Yusa and Railways Minister Yoshiaki Natta, which suggested that numerous internal problems, including transport, had been raised.

Newspapers devoted many pages to the raid, with stories by eyewitnesses and pictures of damaged areas, a Berlin broadcast said. Innumerable parcels of clothing and other gifts "for victims who suffered from the bombardment" were reported by Berlin to have been sent to Tokyo.

The ministry of finance urged the people to take out war risk insurance.

Raid "Complete Failure"
The report that factories had been destroyed was the first admission that anything except hospitals, schools and dwellings had suffered, although an official statement continued to stress that no war industries had been affected and to assert that the raid was a "complete failure."

Asahi said 140 schoolchildren were killed by bombs and another report, via Berlin, said more than thirty school children were machine-gunned, and other casualties caused by explosive and incendiary bombs dropped on hospitals and other places near Tokyo.

Promotion of Pvt. Claude T. Jett, Jr., of the Five Hundred and Second Parachute Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., to the grade of corporal has been announced by post headquarters. Corp. Jett, who was inducted October 2, 1941, is the son of Mrs. Mildred Jett, RFD 1, Cumberland.

Both resolutions will be considered by the committee tomorrow.

Cumberland Youth Is Chosen Fort Monroe's Typical Selectee

PORT MONROE, Va., April 19 (P)—Pvt. First Class Elmer F. Elbin, 24, of Cumberland, Md., attached to headquarters battery, Chesapeake bay sector, has been chosen Fort Monroe's typical selectee following a postwide contest. Major Franklin W. Reese, public relations officer, announced today.

Each battery and detachment at the Fort selected one man by ballot as the soldier considered most typical of the average selectee. These finalists appeared before a board of officers composed of Major Charles A. York, personnel officer; Capt. George F. Daum, chaplain; and Lieut. Lester R. Kennedy, assistant recreation officer.

Golf is Elbin's favorite sport, although he is keenly interested in football, baseball and basketball. A native of Bedford, Pa., Elbin was graduated from Allegheny high and later attended a business school in Cumberland. Before his induction into the army he was employed in the Cumberland research laboratories of the Celanese Corporation, manufacturers of artificial silk and rayon.

Elbin spent six days at Camp Lee after induction and was sent to Fort Eustis for three months of basic training. He then was assigned to Fort Monroe where his work on several occasions has drawn commendation from officers. Elbin was recently awarded the rating of third class specialist.

Joining the parade of war weddings, private Elbin on Feb. 15 married Miss Elizabeth Staniford, also of Cumberland.

Bryanstown Youth Wins CSMC Oratory Contest At Baltimore School

BALTIMORE, April 19 (P)—Lawrence Bender, of Notre Dame high school, Bryanstown, Md., won the oratorical contest of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade to-night before more than 800 persons at Seton high school auditorium.

It was the second successive year that the Southern Maryland speaker had won the contest, returning the large silver trophy to his school for another year.

There were other speakers. Miss Catherine Brunner of Institute of Notre Dame, Baltimore conference; Miss Pauline Smith, Frostburg, St. Joan of Arc unit, Western Maryland conference; and William Harrington Smith, St. John's high school, Westminster, Blue Ridge conference.

Judges were William J. Hunt, of the Cumberland Times, Alan Schneider, of the Catholic university speech and drama department, and Dr. William Garvin of Mount St. Mary's college economics department.

All contestants spoke on "What Can America Give Back to Europe."

Staff Sgt. Hoff and Sgt. Jack E. McCortle, Corp. Roosevelt T. Plummer and Pvt. Fred W. Mills, Jr., are probable candidates for the Officers Training School, Fort Benning, Ga. First Lieut. Robert Matlick has been assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., for a month's observation course.

Two Men Are Held For Investigation In "Cutting Scrape"

Two men, said by police to be members of a carnival, are held in the city jail for investigation as a result of a fight in a local hotel at 1:30 a. m. Sunday.

One of the men, Henry Hetrick, 34, of Spangler, Pa., was treated at Allegheny hospital for a cut on the thigh which was said to have been inflicted with a knife. The other man, Charles Brown, of Greensboro, N. C., suffered injuries about the body. Ten stitches were used to close Hetrick's wound.

They were arrested by Officers C. C. Roby, John Sherry, and Detective James C. Condon.

Twenty Trout in Creel, Angler Is Fined $50

Robert S. Clarke, of Midland, proved beyond a doubt Saturday that there are fish in the Garrett county trout streams and that they can be caught, but it cost him more than $50.

Clarke was fined $50 and costs Saturday night by Magistrate C. S. Zeller at Grantsville for exceeding the legal creel limit of ten and also of catching undersized trout, according to Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke, who said he had twenty trout, eleven of them under the legal size of seven inches.

The trout were taken from the Middle fork of Savage river, Minke reported.
Two Conneltsville, Pa., anglers, C. A. Wagner, Sr. and C. A. Wagner, Jr., were each fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Zeller for fishing with improper licenses. Minke said they were using resident licenses instead of non-resident.

Ten dollars and costs was the penalty imposed on Mrs. Mildred Miller, of 109 May street, by Magistrate Roy S. Bowman, Cresapton, for fishing without a license in Everts creek, the game warden stated.

The arrests were made by Deputy Game Warden Francis Roy Battle, Mixon, Theodore Theorg and Joseph Keating.

LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER FORTY-EIGHT

SHE HAD TO admit, while lying in bed—staring out at a moonlit sky, mottled with rain clouds, and listening to all the crackling summer noises of katydids and crickets and frogs—that Larry's kisses had almost erased the memory of James Lyndon's. She had felt as young and thrilled as she had when Larry had kissed her for the first time in the vestibule of the Four Arts Club.

But she did not intend to let herself be swept along again by the insensate enchantment of Laurence Peyton, a new Laurence Peyton with an unscarred face—or, rather, the same Laurence Peyton, just his normal, good-looking self, just as conceited and cocksure and critical and dictatorial.

It was the old Laurence Peyton telling her with such smugness that Hollywood had ruined her by putting her through the mill, that it had dimmed her sparkle. Naturally she had no comeback. Two sparkling of his feelings to tell him that his green-grapes observation was the sole resort of everyone who had flopped in Hollywood, she said nothing.

Yet, in a way, Larry was right. She had been tossed from picture to picture, fed to a demanding and clamorous public until she had felt driven and as if all the spirit and scintillant fire were being forced out of her. Worse still, the work held no zest for her. It had turned into a machine that ground out money. Well, she was through grinding out money, not only for herself, but for Zenith, Incorporated. How they had howled when she told them she was going to marry the wealthy James Lyndon and retire. It meant nothing to them that she was exhausted as she had never dreamed of being exhausted and irrevocably disgusted with her profession.

That was why she wanted to marry James Lyndon and be cared for as if she were something precious and never have to worry or fuss or be jealous again for the rest of her life. Nevertheless, she fell asleep thinking of Larry's kisses.

He was gone when she awoke a little after 8 the next morning and looked out upon a rainsoaked world. She found his mother on the screened porch, even more affable than she had been at supper the previous night.

"Larry has already gone to the theater," she told Anette and chuckled at her surprise. "Oh, Larry keeps Hollywood hours here. There's so much to be done and he's so interested in this new play. Sit down, dear." She pushed the girl into a chair by the big table, covered with bright oilcloth, and called to the kitchen. "Bring the little one some raspberries and cream. The thick cream," she specified. She turned back to her daughter-in-law. "You look like a child in that gingham pinafore and hair bow."

Anette took hold of the woman's small wiry hand. "And I feel like an old woman."

"You're just tired, dear. We'll change all that," she said happily, then her bird-like eyes encountered a strange expression on the girl's face. "You are going to stay here, aren't you?"

The hired girl brought in a bowl of plump red raspberries and a pitcher of yellow, almost butter-thick cream. She placed an old-style coffee pot, just like the one Anette's grandmother had clung to with fanaticism, within easy reach and left the pair alone.

Anette said enigmatically, "I have to get back to Hollywood." "Please don't," Larry's mother begged. "If you do, it will be the end of my prayers. If only you knew how many times I've hated myself for writing those lies to you when you wrote about Larry, even lying to you yesterday. If you knew how many times I've started to write you that he was here." Tears rattled in her throat. "But he would never have forgiven me."

Unbelievably, the girl asked, "You mean Larry has been here all the time?" The woman's gray head dipped in affirmation. Then she looked at Anette and criticized her expression. "Oh, don't be so bitter, child. Larry has suffered, too. It was horrible, after he had been on top, to lose his looks, to be forced out of his profession and to be penniless at once."

"Penniless?" Anette's topaz eyes were enormous. "Penniless on $15,000. Ralph Hay said he drew out $15,000."

"Sure. To pay off Sandra Owens quietly so she would not go through with the lawsuit. Larry wanted to save that much scandal. What a devil she is, Anette. She saw Larry's car in the studio parking lot that day and got into it. When he came out she started fighting with him because he had refused to have her in his next picture. She had been drinking. She was driving the car, Anette. She was the one who wrecked it."

"Then why didn't Larry say so?" The girl's hands tightened around the edge of the table.

"Who would have believed him? Not even you."

Anette knew the accusation was true. Her long lashes remained downcast while the hired woman served a fluffy ham omelette. Then they lifted. "That's right," she admitted.

"If you could have seen Larry when he got here—a scared stranger—? His mother's voice broke."

"But I wanted to see him," the girl put in. "That's just the point. I've suffered, too," she told the woman without hearing a word. Not that I heard this time. I found him quite by accident and forced myself on him."

"And he is happy because you are here. Don't ever think he is not. But you see, after the operations were successful, there was so much publicity about you and James Lyndon that Larry felt left out in the cold. You can't blame him. That Lyndon affair," she said accusingly, "troubled him greatly."

Anette could not say, "Yes, and a Lyndon affair once troubled me greatly when supposedly Larry and I were happily married." She could not say, "Suppose Larry has had a lesson? Underneath he is the same Larry, just as egotistical and certain of irresistible powers." Such things were not said to a mother about her son. Of, if they were, the wife became the errand one. She knew with intuitive certainty that Larry's mother considered her the errand one, as it were.

She merely said, "I can't understand his waiting so long about the operation."

"He didn't. Wait started immediately, but it was a long and very difficult process. He didn't do all the cutting at once. Then Larry was so impatient to see the results that he lifted the tape too soon and tore the stitches. It was so discouraging."

When the girl looked back to that day of anxiety in Walt's office, realizing now that even then the doctor knew Larry's whereabouts, that he could even have been in the privacy of the consulting room while she poured out her woes, she was filled with helpless rage. She said in a carefully controlled voice, "Well, it is all over now and Larry is handsome again."

Stubbornly she refused to allow sympathy for past turmoil to sift through her plans. All she wanted was Larry's mother to stop talking, to stop beating against her intentions with those too-vivid word pictures of Larry as he had been during the interval of separation. She was glad to be finished with breakfast and move into the guest room and begin packing the few things she had removed from her bag.

As she trailed after her and watched with a tear-filled gaze, "It doesn't seem right for you not to stay longer. Why you and Larry have hardly had a minute together. 'Long enough,'" thought Anette, "for kisses that went right through my lips to my heart, making me so happy and miserable all at the same time that I wanted either to die or else to stay in Larry's arms, just being kissed again."

"You're going to stop at the Mill Stream, of course?" the older woman's voice was agonized as she followed the girl about like a little fluttering bird.

"Yes," said Anette, meaning quite the opposite. She breathed a tremendous sigh of relief when she was sliding carefully up the muddy little side road and still more of one when she reached the asphalt highway. The air was delightful, cool and filled with the fragrance of wet flowers, fields and trees and of soaked red earth. Breezes swept through the open windows of her coupe; the sun was just warm enough.

She turned on the radio and hummed an accompaniment to the cheerful morning hour dance music. The powerful engine hummed along with them.

As she crossed the culvert over the stream that then crooked and ran parallel to the highway and past Larry's summer theater, it pleased her to step harder on the accelerator. It pleased her also, as she passed the little green shingled structure, to ignore it and glance, instead, in the opposite direction at some tall, bright yellow flowers in a water-filled ditch.

Immediately after she looked at the Mill Stream theater, but in her rear vision mirror. Let Larry sit there and wait. Telling her so, she periodically not even to stop unless it was to say she loved him and intended to stay. So supremely self-sure. Just as he had been that night when Walt had taken her backstage in Chicago. She again glanced at her rear vision mirror but no longer could see the building.

Now she felt as if she actually were on her way home—home to James Lyndon and a new life of utter placidity. Thank heaven! She deserved it. She had earned it. She pressed the accelerator still harder, and the powerful car leaped forward. Her long black hair blew in the breeze. She looked like a joy-riding schoolgirl instead of the famous Anette Winlow.

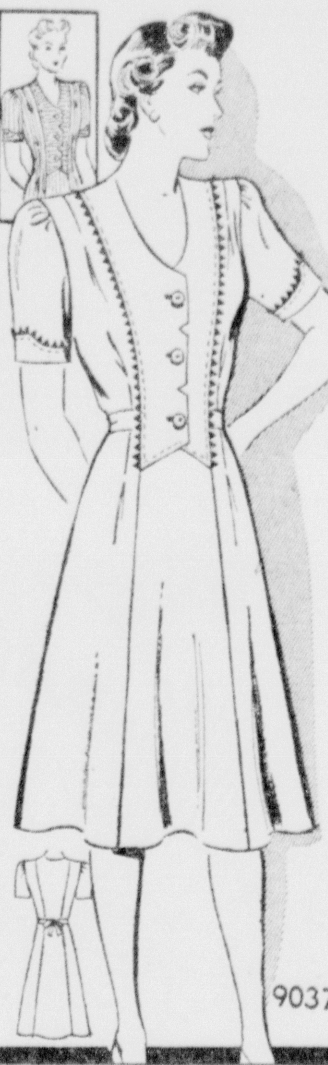

Evidently waiting for the sun to dry the earth, few people were in the fields or along the slippery side roads. Very few were traveling even on the comparatively dry highway. The girl turned on the radio louder, then suddenly turned it off altogether. She looked at the speedometer and saw she had driven almost 10 miles without seeing a soul. The rain had been even more torrential in this section. In a land of slick red clay there was only one really safe part, the asphalt highway, and it was not entirely safe. How on earth did people get onto the highway from those treacherous, slick mud roads?

And then she knew she did not care how people got onto the highway. That was not what made her watch the sides of the pavement.

Ahead of her was a little country store. She slackened the speed of the car. Yes, it had gravel in front of it. Again she applied the brake until the machine was barely crawling. That dry gravel plot in front of the little store would make an excellent place to turn and head back.

Answer: The nursing period is a very dangerous one in respect to the possibility of a mother's gaining weight. I believe that nursing mothers can and should go on reducing diets if they need them.

Defense Courses Have High Value, Dr. Myers Says

Home Blessings in Disguise Will Come Out of Present Emergency

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Out of the present emergency will come some home blessings in disguise. But why did we need a war to get mothers to take courses in nutrition, home nursing and first aid? One also wonders why mothers of today had not been properly educated along these lines while in the public schools. But since they were not, it is splendid for them to get this education now.

Whereas the chief appeal to mothers to take these courses, generally given by the Red Cross, is for immediate defense, especially the courses in first aid and home nursing, the facts and skills gained in these courses will be valuable after the war is over. I wish all young mothers would enroll in one of these courses. They are free.

Within the past few months thousands of American mothers have been trained to administer first aid to children and other members of the family and to neighbors, reducing suffering and saving lives. So also have a good many thousands of mothers learned to be good nurses of sick children and older persons in the home. Think of the hundreds of children afflicted with the common childhood diseases who were saved not only from death but also from complications which often follow these diseases, because so many mothers have had training in defense courses.

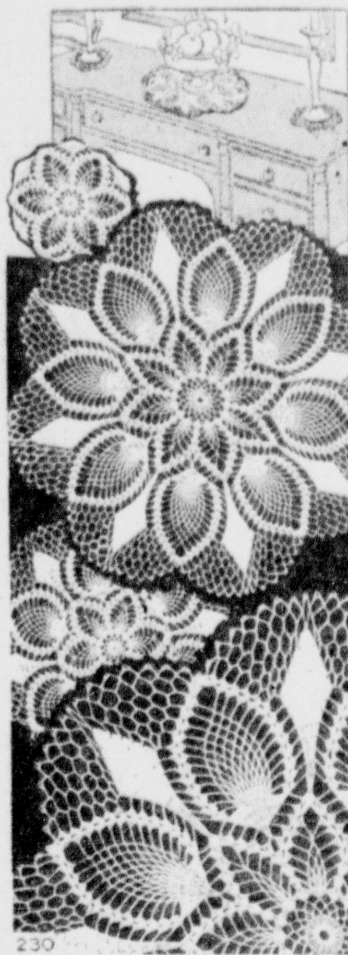

Always Call Doctor

Here I wish to entreat parents of ill children to call the doctor, even though these parents suppose they are good nurses at home; also to have the child checked several times after his apparent recovery. Such checks by the doctor would save so many children from serious effects following these diseases, such as ear, throat and heart infection.

Returning to the defense courses, I wish more emphasis were placed on the psychology of getting the child to choose to eat and enjoy eating the foods he should eat. Often mothers know what a child should have but are unable to get him to eat. A few mothers, indeed, as they learn more about choosing proper foods for the growing child, become, on this very account, less able to win him to want to eat what they make available for him.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should young married couples develop the habit of visiting the parents of either of them once every week or so?

A. No; and after there are grandchildren this habit should be less desirable, since all sorts of family complications may arise as a result.

Q. Is not most rebuke and punishment of children just a means of helping the spanker let off some pent-up anger or assert some feeling of impotence?

A. Perhaps so; and who could justify them when they are? Any one who tries to manage a child should first have himself under complete control, and be guided only by a purpose to help the child.

Q. What is the best way in home or school to undermine morale in our country?

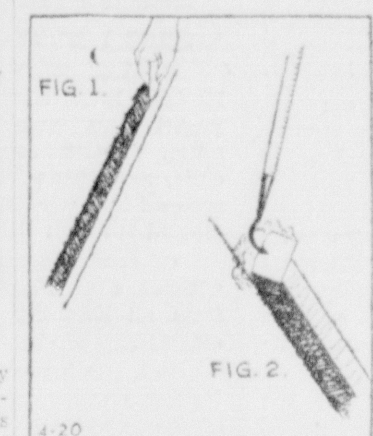

A. To whisper and pass along rumors. We should know that most rumors that are ominous have been started by spies and fifth columnists. Anyway, it is bad for character to engage in whispers and gossip about anything or anybody.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Distributed by Central Press Association)

SOWING SEEDS IN VICTORY GARDENS

After the garden has been dug and raked smooth, the seeds can be sown. The smaller the seeds, the finer the soil in the seed bed should be raked.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, the method of making drills varies with the size of the seed. Fig. 1 shows how to make a drill for very fine seeds. This is done with a wooden label. Fig. 2 shows how a medium-size drill is made by using the corner of a draw hoe.

When making the rows, keep them straight. Do this by using a yardstick or tape line to measure the rows. Use a stout string to mark each row from stake to stake as you prepare to plant the seed.

Even though the ground was not turned up last fall for growing vegetables this spring, good vegetable tables can still be grown if the ground is given proper treatment in April.

When properly managed, a 50 by 100 foot plot of ground should provide fresh vegetables for a family of five, with an abundance of tomatoes, corn, beans, peas, and others, to can and still others to store.

Do not become overly ambitious when planting the vegetable garden and plant all of it at once. Instead, plan for a succession of a few of the family's favorite crops.

Fainting or Syncope May Constitute Real Disability and Source of Worry

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Fainting, or syncope, may occur sufficiently often to some people to constitute a real disability and source of worry. These spells usually do not mean anything serious at all, but in all circumstances they require some investigation and at least, definition. The words "fainting spell" are often used as an euphemistic expression for people who have mild attacks of epilepsy or periods of unconsciousness in the early stages of brain tumor and cerebral arteriosclerosis.

A real fainting spell is a fairly simple thing to understand. We know when a patient faints that the blood leaves the brain entirely, the blood pressure falls very low and the heart stands entirely still for a while. This may be brought on by fatigue or emotion, a too-long period without food or at the beginning of a mild illness.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Careful Examination Necessary

Vertigo, or dizziness, and fainting spells often go together. When these occur either alone or together in young people, I think it is a sufficiently serious symptom to call for a careful examination. In people over fifty, they are so common as to be of little significance, or at least can usually be adjusted by a few days of rest in bed and a cutting-down of activity.

Women after the age of fifty who are undergoing the climacteric change are often bothered with attacks of vertigo and fainting. They must be assured that this is common and natural and will pass, and simply means that nature is telling them not to overdo and not to strain their vital reserves.

In many people over the age of fifty, both vertigo and syncope, in most cases, mean nothing more than a lack of elasticity of the arteries of the brain, which does not allow them to respond as rapidly to sudden changes of position, to sudden exertion and especially to sudden emotions. Both in men and women the ear may be at fault and treatment directed at that source is indicated.

Use of Substitution Drugs

In women especially, but also in men, the use of substitution drugs which are used during the menopause are very valuable.

But the most important thing of all is rest and relaxation. This is especially important in war time. It is my experience that the young have a pretty good time during wars and rather enjoy them, but the old feel out of it and take it out in explosion of nervous energy which do nobody any good but do the individual a lot of harm. I am going to discuss this further tomorrow, so we will let the subject drop in that way.

There are, of course, a few serious causes of vertigo and syncope and fainting spells and allied conditions, even in the old, but none of these is beyond the means of any average doctor to treat and I am sure that, after an examination which is neither expensive nor elaborate, you will feel very much better about a set of symptoms which may be the cause of some perturbation.

Questions and Answers

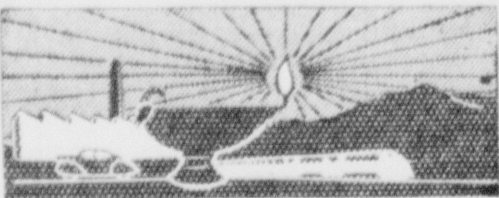

A. B.: "Please tell me what is shingles, the cause, the remedy, and the length?"

Answer: Shingles is a very painful eruption of the skin which breaks out over the area of the distribution of a nerve. It is probably an infectious disease which localizes in the sensory ganglia of the nerve and causes hemorrhages there. The fact that it affects the sensory part of the nerve is what makes it so painful. The course of the disease may be divided into military use. It was explained next day that the remark was 'offhand' and was not to be construed as indicating the government had planned such a move.

"Thousands of motorists never heard or saw the explanation. They still think their cars are in danger of confiscation."

But, since the editorial was published,

we read that Senator Downey, of California, has introduced a bill authorizing the seizure of any private automobile in the land if needed for war workers, the mail and other services. So, what is the poor motorist to believe, anyway?

Advertising Does

A Great Job Now

ADVERTISING—and newspaper advertising in particular—is doing a great job in the United States in this war. Newspaper advertising has never drifted into a rut, and it is not in a rut now.

Proof of this is found in the circumstance that newspaper advertisements are more interesting today than ever in the past. Proof of the indispensability of newspaper advertising is found in the fact that large advertisers whose plants have been diverted almost entirely to war work continue to advertise. Although they may have little to offer the consumer now, they know that after the war there will be a volume of business to fill civilian needs that will be unprecedented in history.

And that is why they advertise now

—to keep their names and their products before the public in preparation for the great days ahead.

This is only one of the services newspaper advertising is rendering in these times. Its service in keeping the consumer informed of changes in the normal supply of all articles and services that comprise the long list of human wants is invaluable and could not be duplicated

by any other medium.

The want ad, too, is serving in the war. Help wanted notices, of course, are more numerous than at any time since the last war. But for sale ads listing everything under the sun also have taken a spurt as many new articles have been placed under wartime ban. So, too, have wanted ads seeking various articles and goods not readily obtainable.

Yes, newspaper advertising is doing a great job in this war. If it were not for this medium, wartime restrictions would prove more onerous.

Quantity Question

Ahead of Quality

APPROVAL of a report on the performance of new American weapons in battle enables the American people to get at one hard fact about the progress of their war effort. It enables them to be sure, on the authority of ordnance, aeronautical and naval experts, that the country's ingenuity in devising improvements in weapons, planes and ships is successful. Enough of these weapons have been put into war service to justify a professional judgment, and the verdict is that they are superior.

The Garand rifle, the new carbine, the improved machine gun and the coast and field guns have proved to be far superior to anything that the Japanese have. Hints that a new anti-aircraft gun was on the way are confirmed in the report. It out-ranges anything in any army. The new tanks are better, both in defensive armor and in firepower, than the best German tanks. In airplanes and new naval craft

the improvements made by American designers are accepted as a considerable advance.

The report demonstrates that American designers were quick to apply the lessons that military and naval experts the world over learned from the Germans.

But American designers were not content to reproduce German weapons. They used them merely as the basis of experiment. Their job was not to match them, but to improve on them.

The quality question having been settled—except as experiments develop still better improvements—the problem now is quantity. The better weapons must be put into the hands of the fighting forces

as quickly as possible. The job of American industry is to hand the fighting men

a better weapon to replace an obsolete weapon as soon as it can be done. The challenge to industry is to be as good at making the new weapons as the fighting men are at using them.

Propellorless Plane No

Cause for Worry Yet

COMES NOW the report that the Italians have succeeded in developing a propellorless warplane that makes no noise. It works on the jet propulsion principle, something like a skyrocket. Air is scooped in through the nose, is heated and ejected through the tail under pressure.

Of course, a noiseless plane, operating without a gasoline engine, would be safe from all listening devices used to detect aircraft.

But, the invention doesn't seem to call for much worry on that score. The Italian craft can operate only at low altitudes, can fly only 130 miles an hour and has so far made only short trips of 150 miles or so.

Also it is exceedingly heavy.

Obviously it is much too slow to be a fighter plane and as a bomber it would be extremely vulnerable to attack once it was discovered.

Of course, new inventions have a way of growing pretty fast under the stress of war. Given time, the Axis experts might be able to work up something formidable out of this Italian development.

But, invention is not the exclusive property of any nation. The United States has had a way of coming to the front in this field. Paraphrasing an automobile manufacturer's slogan, suffice it to say that when better warplanes are built, America will build 'em.

Nowadays when the youngsters beg

Dad for pin money, chances are they are planning an expedition to the nearest bowling alley.

The fellow who brought coals to Newcastle had nothing on those Yankees who have opened an ice cream plant in Iceland.

The Browser's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The Browser has heard that reviewers of books should be gentle and kind toward the first novels of young writers. He agrees: one partly with that axiom; one should be kind only when the young author reveals between the lines and in intermittent flashes of imagination a talent that deserves consideration.

But if the lad or lass has by some misfortune published a book that should have been tossed into the family garbage can to be taken away by some sturdy,

singing workman on a Monday morning—he should be dealt with sharply and his publisher should be fined $500 instantly or lugged off to the jail house.

The Browser has in mind a novel, "Deadlier Than the Male," by a bright young senior in Stanford University, Mr. James Gunn. His publishers, Duell, Sloan & Pearce, announce that Mr. Gunn "writes with the impact of a

James M. Cain, the vigor and humor of a

Dashiell Hammett"; and that his novel is "as original as it is exciting."

A rude noise with the lips is the only adequate resort to such remarks. "Deadlier Than the Male" is a very bad bit of work, written by a youngster who would never have written it at all if he had steeped himself in Messrs. Cain and Hammett and some lesser writers' creations and decided that he could do that sort of thing, too. An unconvincing stew of cruelty, drunkenness, adultery, greed and murder, undisciplined, derivative and dully violent; and its publication should have been delayed until Mr. Gunn's critical sense had caught up with his ambition and energy.

Next week, the Browser warns you, he will go overboard with shouts of joy for Elliot Paul's

"The Last Time I Saw Paris" (Random House)

and Mr. Gunn would do well to buy and read that extraordinary, though somewhat unrestrained, book. It is Mr. Paul's tender, reverent and rowdy offering to the little people who lived on the Rue de la Huchette in the Paris that Mr. Paul once knew so well. . . . and the Browser can hardly wait to do his shouting.

Jan Valtin, who wrote the hotly controversial "Out of the Night," is somewhat disturbed

by the critics who didn't believe that a jailbird revolutionist could have written that book. His reply is a collection of essays and short stories

most of which he wrote when he was Richard

Krebs, a prisoner in San Quentin about fourteen years ago. The book is "Bend in the River" (Alliance Book Corp.) and in it Mr.

Valtin proves his point—that a self-educated

German sailor can learn the English language and achieve some felicity in its use.

The stories are published in the order of their writing and they do show how a man who wrote crudely at first, in an undisciplined riot of emotion and rage, finally learned to keep

Miss Ruth M. Ruppenthal Is Married to Sidney A. Lanier

Ceremony Is Performed at Home of Bride's Parents in LaVale

Miss Ruth Marie Ruppenthal, Washington, D. C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil H. Ruppenthal, LaVale, became the bride of Sidney A. Lanier, Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lanier, Centerville, Texas, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony being performed at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, before an improvised altar backed with ferns, palms, gladioli and carnations, with the Rev. Vernon N. Ridgely, pastor of Centre Street Methodist church, officiating.

Miss Cornelia Baker, Washington, was maid of honor and George Owens, Washington, was Mr. Lanier's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace and satin. The fitted bodice and long waistline was made of white lace, the full skirt of alpine satin. Here finger-tip length veil was held by a coronet of white rosebuds and brassycone. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and carnations.

The maid of honor was attired in peach colored mouseline de soie, made complementary to the bride's. She wore blue iris in her hair and carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and blue iris.

Mrs. Ruppenthal chose a light blue crepe and lace gown for her daughter's wedding with which she wore a corsage of sweet peas.

The bride is a graduate of Allegheny high school and attended Strayer's Business college, Washington. She is employed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, in Washington.

The bridegroom attended the University of Texas and is a member of the FBI in Washington.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held with the bride's table being decorated with spring flowers including iris, gladioli, sweet peas and roses around a three tiered bride cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Lanier left last evening for a wedding trip to Texas. Her going away costume was a silvertone wool suit with which she wore dark blue and rose accessories.

After May 1, Mr. and Mrs. Lanier will be at home, at 4339 Kingston avenue, S. E., Washington.

143 Students in Four Groups Will Participate at Fort Hill High

The rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," by the combined bands of Fort Hill and Allegheny high schools, under the direction of Jack Platt, of Allegheny, will be a feature of the annual spring music festival which will be held at 8:15 o'clock, April 24, in the Fort Hill auditorium.

Another feature will be "Pizzicato Polka," Strauss; "Stout Hearted Men," by Romberg, and "Andante Cantabile," Beethoven played by the combined orchestra of the county under the direction of Geraldine Gaston Mann, Fort Hill.

The second part of the program will be devoted to the voice groups and include the combined A Cappella Choirs under the direction of Miss Dorothy Schree, Fort Hill. They will sing three numbers: "All Through the Night," arranged by Lutken, "Spring Burst Today," arranged by Thompson and the old Scotch melody "Hundred Pipers" arranged by Burnett.

The combined Boys' Glee Clubs, under the direction of Miss Anetta Yates, of Central high school, Lonaconing, will sing "The Hiking Song," "The House by the Side of the Road," and "Medley from the South."

Miss Mary Robb, music teacher at Flintstone, will be in charge of the Girls' Glee Clubs. They will sing "The Year's at the Spring," "Down in the Forest," and "To a Market Fair."

"Verdant Meadows," "When the Poeman Bares His Steel," and "To the Old Country," will be sung by the combined Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison, of Allegheny high.

One hundred forty-three members of the band, Glee Clubs, A Cappella Choirs and orchestras will participate this year. There will not be an admission charge and the seats in the rear of the balcony will be available to anyone not having a complimentary ticket.

TO THE SCHOOL PATRONS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY:

The teachers of Allegheny County, through us, have asked the County Commissioners for a fair and reasonable adjustment of their salaries amounting to a flat increase of $240 per teacher.

Since February, 1941, the cost of living has steadily mounted, but the teachers have received no added income to meet such additional expenses as have other large groups in our community. Beginning with last September, 11,000 or more Celanese and B. & O. employees have received an increase in their incomes to help meet their increased living expenses to the amount of about $17 a month based on the 40 hour week. Therefore, the teachers have asked for an addition of $20 a month to their salaries beginning last September. This amounts to only $3 a month more than the sum received by the above mentioned employees; however, the teacher's occupation requires greater expenditures for clothing, books, magazines, and so forth, needed in his work.

WE HAVE ASKED THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO APPROVE THE CAUSE OF THE TEACHERS AND THE CAUSE OF THE PUPILS IN OUR SCHOOLS. OUR SPLENDID SCHOOL SYSTEM WHICH HAS BEEN BUILT UP BY YEARS OF ADMINISTRATIVE TOIL AND EFFORT IS THREATENED NOW WITH A LOWERING OF EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS AND ACHIEVEMENT. MANY EFFICIENT TEACHERS HAVE ALREADY LEFT OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM; WITHIN LESS THAN A YEAR 18 TEACHERS HAVE RESIGNED FROM THE ALLEGANY AND FORT HILL HIGH SCHOOLS ALONE TO ACCEPT HIGHER-PAID POSITIONS.

IF WELL-TRAINED, EXPERIENCED, CAPABLE, AND ZEALOUS TEACHERS CANNOT BE KEPT IN OUR SCHOOL ROOMS FOR THE INSTRUCTION OF THE BOYS AND GIRLS, THEN GOOD BUILDINGS AND GOOD EQUIPMENT ARE VERY MUCH IN VAIN.

Good teachers, as a rule, do not leave their accustomed positions and associations for light and trivial reasons, but if they feel that they are the victims of unfair and unjust financial hardship, then they cannot reasonably be expected to refuse higher-paid jobs in industry and teaching positions elsewhere.

DURING THE LAST WORLD WAR PERIOD THE TEACHERS RECEIVED TWO OR THREE BONUSSES IN AS MANY YEARS TO COMPENSATE FOR WORK THAT HAD BEEN DONE DURING THE YEAR. IN JUSTICE TO THE TEACHERS AND IN FAIRNESS TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS IN THE SCHOOLS, WE BELIEVE THAT THE INCREASE REQUESTED BY THE TEACHERS IS A NECESSITY THAT SHOULD BE MET BY THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WHEN THEY MAKE THEIR ANNUAL LEVY NEXT TUESDAY.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,
By the Legislative Committee of the Teachers Association of Allegheny County,

ORBLE B. BOUGHTON, Chairman
PEARL A. EADER,
ROBERT C. MORRIS

Julliard Violin Winner Will Play In Radio Concert

Montgomery - Peralta Fight at Philadelphia Is Scheduled

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 19—Dolores Maurine Miller, 16-year-old winner of the NBC-Julliard violin contest, is to play in a special concert by the NBC symphony orchestra on NBC at 7:30 Monday night. Leopold Stokowski will direct. It will be her first really ambitious concert.

Fight broadcasting gets some more network time via the Blue at 9:30 o'clock as a switch is made to Philadelphia for the scrap between Bob Montgomery and Joey Peralta. They battle at lightweight ratings.

A certain amount of program shifting is to be noted. For one thing there is the transfer of Helen Menken's serial, "Second Husband," from a half-hour a week on CBS at night to the daytime list of the Blue, five times a week. It will be at 11 a. m. For another, the one-man MBS show, The Johnson Family, shifts from afternoon to 7:15. Here's Morgan old spot.

Dance Series

Then at 6 the Blue is opening another Canadian series, to run also on Wednesdays and Fridays. It will be Don Hesters Islanders, a square dance group.

The Monday night drama includes Claude Rains in "Thomas Paine" on NBC at 8 and Martha Scott together with Frederick March in "One Foot in Heaven" for the Radio Theater on CBS at 9.

Rep. Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, speaks on "Labor Legislation" for the National Radio forum on the Blue at 9 while on MBS at 10:15 from the National Safety council awards dinner Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, will be heard.

Listings by Networks

NBC—10 a. m. Bess Johnson, serial; 12 noon Words and Music; 1:15 p. m. The Rhythmaires; 3 Against the Storm, serial; 6:30 Brad Reynolds, tenor; 8:30 Richard Crooks, songs; 9 James Melton concert; 9:30 Doc I. Q. quiz; 10 Contended Concert.

CBS—11 a. m. Arthur Godfrey, Victory Begins at Home; 3:30 p. m. League of Composers concert; 5 Are You a Genius, quiz; 6:15 Hedda Hopper on Hollywood; 7:30 (West 10:30) Blondie and Dagwood; 8 Vox Pop from the Citadel, State military college, Charleston, S. C.; 8:30 Gay Nineties Revue; 10 Freddy Martin orchestra; 11:15 Dancing.

Blue—12:30 p. m. Farm and Home hour; 3 p. m. Prescott Presents; 5 Music by Bovero; 7 Jimmie Fidler and the movies; 8 I Love a Mystery; 8:30 True or False; 11 Dance music. MBS—10:45 a. m. ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

John Carroll is depending on Lou Costello to get him out of a jam when he gets mixed up with a gang of spies in the M-G-M musical, "Rio Rita," co-starring Abbott and Costello on the Maryland screen Wednesday. But when he isn't ducking bullets, Carroll spends a lot of his time singing love duets with pretty Kathryn Grayson in the low laugh extravaganza.

Theaters Today

Mildred Bailey First Orchestra Girl Singer

Mildred Bailey, the beloved Rockin' Chair Lady who comes to the Maryland theater, tomorrow, is not only one of the top singers in the business but she can claim credit for being a pioneer in the youthful history of popular orchestras.

Mildred's contribution, and some day it will be recorded in books on the subject, is that she started the new universal custom of female vocalists singing with a popular dance band. Today, no band is too small to hire a female vocalist but back in 1929, Mildred was blazing new trails when she persuaded Paul Whiteman to hire her. She was recommended for the job by one of Whiteman's rhythm boys, a young man whose name is Bing Crosby.

Mildred remained with Whiteman for the next four years, then decided to make a go of it herself. When she first sang "Ol' Rockin' Chair Got Me" with Red Norvo's band behind her, a new tradition in show business was born. Subsequently, in radio, night clubs and on records, Mildred established herself as one of the singing "greats" of the music business.

The Rockin' Chair Lady and her songs will be featured at the Maryland theater, tomorrow only.

Lamour and Holden Score in Tune-Film

Weigh anchor immediately, folks, and set a straight course for the Strand theater, because that's where that dreadnaught of jollity, jokes and live, "The Fleet's In," is now showing.

Starring in this new comedy with music launched by Paramount, are Dorothy Lamour, William Holden and Eddie Bracken, who carry out their roles with the eagerness of a job on shore leave. Matching their sparkling performances are a list of entertainers that put last night's audience into a cloy that would have lighted up a blackout. It's a great show.

Among the grand entertainers are Betty Hutton America's Number One Jitterbug Betty Jane Rhodes, Left Erickson, Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra and his two vocalists, Bob Eberly, Gil Lamb, Barbara Britton and the comedy dance team of Lorraine and Rogann. Seven hit tunes are heard.

Melodious and packed with hilarious gags—and plenty of beautiful girls—"The Fleet's In" presents Dorothy Lamour as a ballroom queen who has never been kissed by a sailor. Holden is the fleet's romantic champion.

'Kings Row' To Open Friday at the Liberty

Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field top the cast of "Kings Row," the new picture which is scheduled to open on Friday at the Liberty theater. The film, adopted from recent best-selling novel of the same name, is the story of two romances set against the background of a small midwestern town at the turn of the century.

New Starrett Hit Coming to Embassy

Motion picture fans are demanding more action in their films every year. . . and Hollywood directors see to it that they get it! But, this desire for the maximum in thrills and realistic action results in plenty of exciting "close shaves" for the actors, according to Charles Starrett, Columbia western star.

And even though Starrett is a rugged, all-around athlete and veteran of countless films, he admits there are occasions when he is hard-pressed to follow the script and still come out in one piece.

All the rough and tumble battles with burly outlaws for his current picture "Prairie Stranger," which is opening at the Embassy theater, he took in stride. But there were other scenes with a greater element of risk.

One of these called for Starrett to make a daring "transfer" from running horse to wagon, while they thundered over rough ground at top speed.

Even more dangerous was a safety a run-away wagon that had scene in which he had to guide to

War Production Training Classes Open to Women

Registration for Courses Scheduled Tonight at Fort Hill High

Several of the war production training classes sponsored by the Allegheny county board of education are now open to women, according to a statement issued by the board.

Aircraft woodwork, oxyacetylene welding, aircraft sheetmetal work, and aircraft riveting are among the courses in which women may enroll.

Sponsored by the board of education in co-operation with the National Youth Administration and the United States Employment Service, the courses are designed to train men and women for jobs in the nation's expanding war industries.

Tonight at Fort Hill, applications will be received for enrollment in the various classes, and scores of men and women, between 18 and 55 years of age, are expected to apply.

At 7 o'clock, Anthony Dorosh will meet with men and women interested in aircraft sheetmetal work and riveting. At 8 o'clock, men and women wishing to take training in welding will meet with J. D. Lomholm, co-ordinator of national defense training, and at 9 o'clock applicants for the aircraft wood-working course will be interviewed by Lomholm.

New hours have been adopted to take care of the increased registration, and persons interested in securing war industry training without charge may apply at the board of education office, Washington street, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 to 5 p. m.; and at Fort Hill from 6 p. m. to 12 midnight.

Sportsmen Hear Conservationist

T. D. Gray Is Chief Speaker at Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club Rally

Featured by an address by T. D. Gray, of Charleston, West Virginia, conservation commissioner, a big sportsmen's rally was held Saturday night under the auspices of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club at its headquarters near Ridgeley.

Gray discussed forestry conservation and wild life before an audience of 250. Former Judge G. K. Kump, of Romney, served as toastmaster after being introduced by Odebert Poling, president of the club. Mayor Paul K. Morgan delivered the address of welcome, and the invocation was offered by the Rev. Kenneth Plummer, pastor of Calvary Methodist church, Ridgeley.

Also on the program was an oration by Miss Mary Sirna entitled "I Am an American" and selections by the band of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose. The band played the national anthem as the roll of club members now in the armed forces was called.

Entertainment included a vaudeville act by George Beckwith and Moody Daum, music by a hill-billy band and a solo by Bradford Keyser.

The dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of Calvary church.

Missionary Society Will Elect Officers

The Mountain Conference of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran church will hold its twenty-eighth annual meeting tomorrow in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Frostburg.

Officers will be elected at the meeting to be held at 3 p. m. The speakers will be Mrs. M. Edwin Thomas, president of the Maryland Synodical, Mrs. Walter Scheermer and Mrs. Harry B. Fogle. Mrs. Dorothy L. Kreiling will extend the greetings, Miss Pauline Fisher will respond, Miss Louise Shaffer will be in charge of the devotional and Mrs. Lillian S. Stewart will be the pianist. Reports of the officers, department secretaries and societies will be given.

Mrs. Vivian Lloyd and Miss Katherine Thomas will be in charge of the box lunch supper hour.

Miss Lillian Schwab, missionary on furlough from India, will be the speaker at the session to be held at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Walter V. Simon will be in charge of the vesper service. Mrs. Blanch Stanton Gunter will be the soloist with Miss Dora Metzger at the piano.

The Rev. John Streib, pastor of the Calvary Lutheran church, Baltimore, will be host for the Congress to be held April 23.

Will Drape Charter

The regular meeting of Pride of America Council No. 110, Daughters of America, will meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Junior Order hall, Polk street.

The charter will be draped in memory of Mrs. Anna Clark.

About a Father and Mother and War, and How a Son Taught Them the Importance of the Home Front

(Copyright by United Feature Syndicate)

By VIRGINIA OWENS

"Look, Mom, said Steve, 'it isn't as if I were going away for good or as if I had never been alone before. I think you're being silly. Pretty soon it will be spring and you'll have ruined a whole winter for both Dad and yourself.'"

"Yes, I know, Steve," Mrs. Rankin said, "but somehow I can't seem to bring myself to go without you. We've gone to Florida every year for five years now and it won't hurt us to miss this once. Besides, if I left, you might forget something and there'd be no one to see you off for camp, and, oh, I don't know... there are so many things to think about."

Mrs. Rankin looked imploringly at her son as if wishing he would say no more about the matter. Steve dried the last plate and threw the dish towel over the rack. He leaned against the white flat-topped stove and lit a cigarette. He took a deep, appreciative drag of it and then scowled down at the linoleum. Mrs. Rankin busied herself by putting away the dishes Steve had dried.

There was a sound of stirring in the living room and Steve shrugged his shoulders and walked out of the kitchen. "Dad's up, I guess."

"Boy, I'm tired," said Mr. Rankin. "Must be getting old. Tell your mother to get a move on. We're due at the Jeffreys in a half hour."

Mrs. Rankin settled his great length into his favorite chair and picked up the evening paper. He like a heel keeping you both here. I may not get notice to leave for the army for another month and then the whole winter will be shot. What difference does it make if I leave first or you do? Besides, you'll be able to rest easier if I'm revolving down at the store for the first couple weeks that you're in Florida."

"Well, I don't know, Steve," his father said. "Your mother is pretty upset about this thing. That's what you get for being an only son."

"You wouldn't care to come along?" she ventured. Steve shook his head. He was 23 and somehow or other he had never spent much time with his parents. Being an only child he had learned to be alone. In four years of college he had never known homesickness. The elder Rankins were still young enough to go out and enjoy themselves and it wasn't till he had enlisted in the air corps that they had become a trifle wistful about the amount of time Steve spent at home.

"Hey, Duchess," he said, "think that little deal over, will you? After all, this might be your last vacation for a while."

"Good night, son," he said. "Get in a little early and be careful to put out all the cigarette butts before you leave."

"Sure thing," said Steve shutting the door behind them.

The next morning Steve was awakened by a bustle of unusual activity. Grabbing his robe, he went into the living room and saw his mother clad in a sweater and old saddle shoes kneeling on an overstuffed suitcase.

"We're leaving," she said abruptly. "Your father said that we could see you wherever you are on our way back from Florida. I hadn't noticed until last night how tired he's been looking. I was so worried about you that I didn't remember patient summons to remind her husband of their date at the movies. Steve got up from the piano and sank into an easy chair. Mrs. Rankin came out of the bedroom and stood waiting for her husband while he put on his coat. She was a stunning woman, simply dressed with beautifully coiffured hair. She watched Steve fondly as he read the paper.

Steve took his mother in his arms and squeezed her tight. Mr. Rankin came to the door and rubbing the sleep out of his eyes, he said, "What's cookin', son?"

"Nothing, Dad," said Steve tenderly. "I was just telling Mom that this matter of keeping the home fires burning is quite a noble business."

FREDERICK, Md., April 19 (AP)—The police department will have summer uniforms, even if it doesn't have police to wear them.

Bids for the uniforms have been asked, city officials said, although they conceded they didn't know when members of the force would be called into the armed forces, or would leave the department to take defense jobs.

Mayor Lloyd C. Culler said all of the department's twenty-five winter uniforms would not be replaced, since there would not be twenty-five men to don them. He added uniforms wouldn't be bought for men contemplating leaving the force soon, because probably the suits would misfit their successors.

until Mrs. Jeffrey said something about it. Yesterday was your father's birthday and I didn't even bake him a cake. I feel awful. I haven't even finished the sweater I promised him last fall. And both Jack and Bob Jeffrey left last week and Mrs. Jeffrey says I'm being selfish and that there are thousands of mothers just like me and oooooo Steve." Her lips quivered and big tears rolled down her cheeks.

Steve took his mother in his arms and squeezed her tight. Mr. Rankin came to the door and rubbing the sleep out of his eyes, he said, "What's cookin', son?"

"Nothing, Dad," said Steve tenderly. "I was just telling Mom that this matter of keeping the home fires burning is quite a noble business."

Frederick To Have Police Uniforms, but May Lack Policemen

FREDERICK, Md., April 19 (AP)—The police department will have summer uniforms, even if it doesn't have police to wear them.

Bids for the uniforms have been asked, city officials said, although they conceded they didn't know when members of the force would be called into the armed forces, or would leave the department to take defense jobs.

Mayor Lloyd C. Culler said all of the department's twenty-five winter uniforms would not be replaced, since there would not be twenty-five men to don them. He added uniforms wouldn't be bought for men contemplating leaving the force soon, because probably the suits would misfit their successors.

Stretches Himself To Become Fireman

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Gino Franceschini, 20, tried to become a fireman last August but measured only five feet five and seven eighths inches instead of the required five feet seven inches.

He grew tall on his feet, banged his head to raise a bump and practised hanging by a neck harness. Then tried again.

Results: Five feet six and one-half inches—failure.

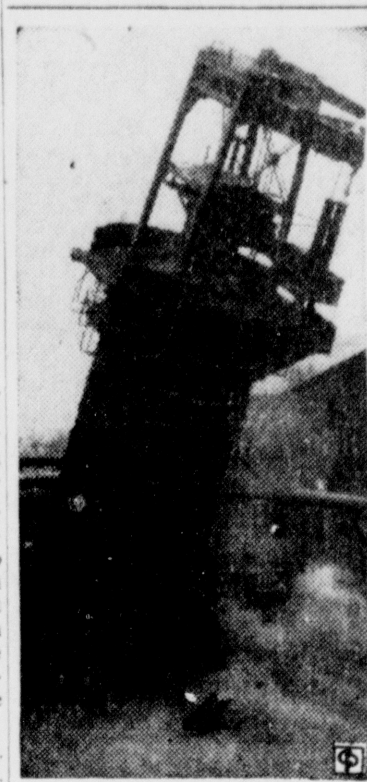

Two friends carried Franceschini on a stretcher before municipal civil service commissioners.

"Five feet seven-sixteenth inches," said the man with the tape measure.

"I'm in!" shouted Franceschini. He said the extra height had been added with a home-made bed stretcher.

Bayliss Resigns Council Position At Mt. Lake Park

Bittner Becomes Successor; Road Named MacArthur Boulevard

OAKLAND, April 19.—At a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park the resignation of John Bayliss as member and president of the council was accepted.

His successor was named by the other members of council, according to charter regulations, and they selected Hervey Bittner from a list which also included Jamie Elliott, Ray Bittinger and John Fitzwater. Mr. Bittinger will also serve as president of the council, according to Dr. C. Oscar Hall, mayor.

Dr. Hall also announced that the last of the concrete bulkheads had been completed on the road leading from E. street to the Bowling alley, which marked the completion of the entire roadway of about 1-1-10 miles. This roadway has been named MacArthur Boulevard.

Teachers Will Meet

All high school teachers, have been asked to assemble in Oakland high school on Wednesday, April 29, to hear a summary of the results evolving from a study program carried on for the past several months by a special committee appointed last fall.

James E. Spitznas, high school supervisor, will give the purposes and history of the study program and a summary of the implications and conclusions will be made by Foster D. Bittle, principal of Oakland High. The summary will likely include summaries of the high points of the testing programs recently carried out by J. Frank Getty, Grantsville, and Ernest Spoerlein, Oakland, according to F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent.

How data on pupil population and school community affect the learning situation will be discussed by Miss Dorothea Fridinger, in the field of English; Marshall G. Brown, in the field of social studies, both of Oakland High staff; and Raymond O. McCullough, Friendsville, in the field of science.

The meeting will last the entire day and high schools are to be closed in order that all high school teachers may attend the sessions.

Raymond Dawson Is Recommended For Post of Patrolman at Keyser

Appointment Is Subject to The Approval of City Council Tomorrow

KEYSER, W. Va., April 19.—Raymond Dawson, former police station clerk here, has been named patrolman on the local force by Mayor John C. Freedland. The appointment is subject to the approval of the city council which will meet Tuesday.

Dawson was one of four candidates for the position who passed a civil service examination given by the local police board last week. He was desk clerk at the station from 1938 until early last month, when he resigned to accept employment elsewhere.

The mayor said today he was confident of the council's approval of the appointment, as Dawson, in addition to meeting all the qualifications for the post, was familiar with the operation of the force here.

School Board Will Purchase Three Buses

Two Tucker County Teachers Are Granted Leave of Absence

PARSONS, April 19.—The Tucker county Board of Education met last evening in the office of the county superintendent of schools and bids were opened and accepted upon the approval of the State Board of Finance for three new school buses. Red Sox Capture Lead in American League

Yankees Handed Second Straight Loss by Boston

Heber "Dick" Newsom Scores Second Mound Victory, 5 to 2

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The world champion New York Yankees went down to their second straight defeat today as Heber (Dick) Newsom pitched Boston to a 5-2 victory for his second mound triumph of the season. The triumph puts the Red Sox in first place in the American League.

The Red Sox collected only five hits off Marvin Brewer, who worked the first eight innings, but they combined three of them with a pair of passes to score four runs in the fourth inning. They added another tally in the following frame, just as they did yesterday when they scored four in the third and one in the fourth to down the Yanks, 5-1.

Brewer handcufted Ted Williams, the Boston slugger, but never recovered from his one shaky inning in which he contributed one of the three Yankee errors of the day to aid in the Red Sox outburst.

Dom DiMaggio's double, the only extra-base hit of the game, led to the final Boston tally when he was pushed on around by Johnny Pesky's sacrifice and a bad throw by Bill Dickey on Jimmy Fox's infield out. The Yankees could do little with Newsom after the third inning although they banged out eight hits in all.

Joe DiMaggio, after three hitless games, singled Phil Rizzuto home with the first Yankee run in the opening frame and Joe Gordon drove Tommy Henrich across in the third for the last score of the losers. Johnny Lindell replaced Brewer in the ninth and held the Red Sox hitless. The box score:

Navy Officers Team With Pros for Golf Match at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 19 (AP)—Golf Professionals Sammy Sneed and Gene Sarazen teamed with Admiral Russell Willson and Capt. J. B. Pollard today in a nine-hole exhibition match before a large crowd of midshipmen and naval academy officers and wives.

Willson, former superintendent of the academy and now chief of staff under Admiral Ernest King, and Sarazen played against Pollard and Sneed.

"We didn't keep score," Pollard said, adding that the pros later teamed with two midshipmen for nine holes.

Berkeley Tossers Split in Two Tilts

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., April 19.—Berkeley Springs high tossers split even in their first two games of the season last week, tipping Paw Paw high 3-2 and bowing 8-6 to Hancock (Md.) high.

All the runs in the game with Paw Paw were scored in the first inning with each club getting only two hits. Jack Willard, Berkeley hurler, fanned nine while Paw Paw's Punkhouser struck out five.

Hancock tallied four times in the first, twice in the second and then scored in the fifth and sixth frames with single counters. Bohrer held Berkeley to four hits.

Four Baseball Games Added to Moun's Card

EMMITSBURG, Md., April 19 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. John F. Hogan, director of athletics at Mount St. Mary's college, announced today four games had been added to the school's baseball schedule.

He said there would be two contests with Catholic university, the first at Washington, April 25, and the second here on April 30. Shipensburg State Normal will be engaged there on May 23, and a game is scheduled with Loyola college June 3 at Baltimore.

HANDSHAKES: MAJOR MAULERS HIT 'EM FAR

Two of the leading sluggers in the American League, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yanks, and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, have begun their long-range bombardment although the season is only a few days old. DiMaggio blasted his first homer in Washington and received the congratulations of Tom Henrich. Williams socked his first in Boston and Jimmy Foxx was on hand for handshake.

Golf Shows Way In Contribution To War Effort

U. S. G. A. President Discusses Organization's Plans, Sacrifices

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, April 19 (Wide World)—The United States Golf Association, often pictured as directed by a bunch of pompous brass hats wallowing in idleness, in its own unheralded way is contributing as much, if not more, to the war effort than any other sports organization.

Since its abrupt announcement that it had cancelled all its established national tournaments the U. S. G. A. has been the butt of criticism for critical remarks with the critics unaware that the cancellations were the result of study of a war-time policy started long before Pearl Harbor.

George W. Blossom, Jr., of Chicago, president of the U. S. G. A., and typical of the men who devote their time and energies to the welfare of the sport, without remuneration, discussed the plans and sacrifices of the organization during a visit here, and left no doubt as to the sincerity and foresight in every move.

"We will lose sixty per cent of our income this year through cancellation of the tournaments," he said. "On top of that, we will have to dip into our reserve fund to the extent of $30,000 or $25,000 to carry on our war program."

"We hope, however, that our efforts will bring hundreds of thousands of dollars for war charities, and when you spend $20,000 to get say $50,000, that's a pretty good trade, isn't it?"

On pressure, Mr. Blossom admitted $500,000 was conservative, and he and Joe Dey, executive secretary, agreed the figure might run into the millions. Dey pointed out that exhibition matches in the last war brought a million dollars, and that Bobby Jones, then a kid, participated in twenty-five exhibitions that netted an average of $3,000 each.

The exhibitions this time are being left to the pros, but Blossom said the U. S. G. A. plans promise rich returns for charity. He divided these activities into four divisions, to wit:

- 1.—The Hale American club tournaments, with proceeds going to the Red Cross.
- 2.—The Hale America open tournament at Chicago, with the navy relief fund and the U. S. O. the beneficiaries.
- 3.—The campaign to establish driving ranges at army camps.
- 4.—The contribution of the greens section.

The Hale America club tournaments are the big brother of the Liberty tournaments held in 1917 and 1918. One such tournament was held each year, $25 clubs taking part and $210,000 being raised for the Red Cross.

This year 5,290 clubs are being asked to hold tournaments over three holiday week-ends with an entry fee of $1 a round. So far 400 have reported they will cooperate, and Dey is anxious to hear from others so an idea of the preparations necessary may be obtained.

With more than 2,000,000 golfers in the country, and a chance for each to play as much as seven rounds, the possibility that the financial return might reach astronomical figures is there.

The Hale America open tournament is practically the National open without the tag of "championship." The field will be as class as any open, the purse—$6,000—the same. That is the only event in which the U. S. G. A. will take out money for expenses.

The driving range idea is more or less local, with clubs and individuals

A handicap singles duckpin tournament for both men and women bowlers is being planned by the management of the Savoy bowling alleys. The tourney will be limited to members of teams in leagues which operated at the Savoy during the 1941-42 season.

Secretaries of the various leagues will be expected to furnish the management with copies of the averages of their bowlers so that handicaps can be computed and posted.

The Savoy will award a $25 defense bond to the winner of each of the men's and women's tournaments and there will be other prizes depending on the number of contestants. Entry blanks can be obtained from the management and must be filed before midnight Thursday, April 30. The tourney for men will be staged May 3, 4 and 5 and that for women on May 10, 11 and 12.

Colchis will start in Wood Memorial.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 19 (AP)—R. Sterling Clark's Colchis winner of the rich Chesapeake stakes yesterday, will seek further honors Saturday in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, his owner said today.

Colchis, also winner of the Chesapeake trial earlier in the week, is not eligible for the Kentucky derby, but is expected to go in the Preknex at Pimlico May 9.

Clark made his decision on the $25,000 Wood Memorial after conferring with Trainer Vincent Mara following yesterday's Chesapeake, in which he defeated Alab. Requested, and other derby favorites.

duals in the vicinity of camps being asked to co-operate in contributing clubs, balls and facilities.

The greens section's contribution is the most direct of all as it concerns the war effort. For twenty years the U. S. G. A. has conducted an experimental station in Washington, and its director, Dr. John Monteith, Jr., probably knows more about why, when and where grass will grow than any man in the country.

The army is making use of Dr. Monteith's knowledge in airport construction. It has been estimated that the life of airplane motors has been cut as much as ninety per cent through airport dust, and Dr. Monteith is helping government officials in developing tough grass for landing fields.

All in all, the U. S. G. A. really is going all out in the war effort, and contributing to its own $89,000 sinking fund. What more could be asked

Detroit's Tigers, Brownies Divide In Doubleheader

Bengals Take Nightcap 1-0 after Bowing 2-1 in First Game

ST. LOUIS, April 19 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers split a brace of pitchers' battles today with home runs deciding the issue both times. The Tigers won the nightcap, 1 to 0 after the Browns took the opener, 2 to 1.

A roaring crowd of 13,738 fans saw Ned Harris, Tiger outfielder, plaster a homer in the ninth inning of the second game to break the scoreless tie. Chet Laabs, Brownie outfielder, poked a home run in the fourth frame of the first game, scoring Roy Cullenbine ahead of him.

Detroit pitchers had somewhat the better of the two games, giving up only four blows a game. Detroit collected five the first game and six the second.

After Harris had smashed the ice into fragments with his game-wrecking blow in the ninth inning of the second game, Brownie fans had a moment of excitement in the home half when Vern Stephens, their favorite shortstop, slapped a single with two away and pinch-hitter Glenn McQuillen walked. Anthony Criscola was not so successful as a pinch-hitter, however. He grounded down the third base line for the final out. The scores:

Milkman Breaks Mark in Winning Boston Marathon

Joe Smith Shatters Record although Weakened by Flu Attack

By BILL KING
BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—After being urged to compete by his wife, ailing Joe Smith, 27-year-old Medford milkman who feared he was too weak to attempt such a punishing task, today surprised even himself by winning the Boston A. A.'s famous marathon in the course record-smashing time of two hours, 26 minutes, 51 1-5 seconds.

Smith, greatly weakened by a bout with influenza in January, clipped one minute, 37 2-5 seconds off the mark set by Gerard Cote of Montreal in 1940, while beating the closest of his 113 rivals, Lou Gregory, the experienced Syracuse schoolmaster, to the tape by more than a quarter mile. Gregory was timed in 2:28:03 3-5, just fifteen seconds faster than the Cote record.

Baltimorean Third
The next three to finish, Carl Maroney of Medford, Don Heinke of Baltimore, who placed third twice and second in the last three B.A.A. races over the twenty-six mile-385 yard course, and Johnny Kelley of Arlington, the 1935 victor and runnerup to the absent Les Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., last year, were about two miles behind when Smith broke the tape after putting on a terrific closing spurt.

Cote finished sixth in 2:39:59 and the pre-race favorite, Fred McGlone of Boston, was disqualified when he came in seventh. He collapsed about fifty yards from the finish line and, despite his protests, was pulled to his feet by a pair of kindly but misguided police officers who did not realize they were rendering him illegal assistance.

Winner Finishes Strong
As a result, Bill Steiner of New York, was moved up one position when he finished eighth, as were all of the others strong enough to travel the full distance. Michael O'Hara of New York, and Lloyd Bairson of Boston, were the others in the actual first ten finishers.

"My wife talked me into starting and I had to win for her," Smith explained after the race. "I have been feeling weak since my illness and I did not expect to last more than fifteen miles. But I gained strength with every mile and I felt so good at the twenty-mile mark that I just stepped out and ran away from the field."

It was his second consecutive marathon victory, for he won the National A. A. U. event last fall. He placed fifth and sixteenth in his previous B.A.A. attempts.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19 (AP)—With Buck Newsom untouchable in the pinches, the Washington Senators came romping behind to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4, and earn a split in a double header today. The A's took the first contest, 5-1.

The Senators rallied to score three runs in the fifth inning of the nightcap, knocking Luman Harris out of the box. Newsom gave the A's nine hits but tightened when the occasion demanded to triumph.

Phil Marchildon pitched a six-hit game for the A's in the opener, allowing no earned runs. The Athletics cuffed Sid Hudson and Walter Masterson for twelve blows.

Mike Kreevich, A's outfielder, continued his robust hitting by getting two safeties in each game. He has now made six doubles and seven singles in thirty-one trips to the tines came from behind to defeat the

Among the men expected to report tomorrow are G. A. (Tex) Oliver, former Oregon university football coach, recently named head griddon mentor of the Far West pre-flight school at St. Mary's (Calif.) College; Isaac Deeter, University of Washington boxing coach; George Sauer, New Hampshire football coach and Al (Mudge) McCoy, Harvard assistant football coach.

Another member of the class will be Roland Logan, of West Point, N. Y., former United States Military Academy trainer. Logan, commissioned a lieutenant, has been in Annapolis for several weeks aiding in the organization of the physical training program. Before he conditioned army squads, Logan served as trainer for University of Pittsburgh teams under Coach Jock Sutherland.

Horsemen Are Convinced This Year's Kentucky Derby Will Be Jockey's Race

By IRA WOLFERT
JAMAICA, L. I., April 19.—It was the third time of the evening. The horses were all in bed. Some horsemen were hanging around a juke box, feeding it nickels and letting it cry the blues for them. "I threw a kiss into the ocean," wept the machine and a clocker started talking about the Kentucky derby, May 2. It's no more than from tick to tick for a clocker to jump in his mind from the blues to blue grass to Kentucky's greatest sporting event.

Jockey's Race This Year
Clocker — I figure it's going to be a jockey's race this year. There's no standout horse around. Alab, Apache, Sun Again, Devil Diver, they're geckers and couldn't come in first on a merry-go-round. It's the jockey that's going to win this time.

Reporter — You give it to Eddie Arcaro then?
Trainer — What's the matter with Don Meade? (Several people present hold their noses and the trainer's voice rises angrily.) You're crazy. There's a guy . . . All right, his foot slipped once. Whose hasn't? Mention me one foot that hasn't slipped once, only Meade got caught and now he can't do anything right according to you guys.

Clocker — We is fumd duh sauth suh. Please refuth to us guys as youse-all.

Trainer — (Still angry) — Aah, nute! Meade comes here and hits the ball on the nose time after time, sixteen winners his first week out here, and what do they say? He boots in the last three straight one day and do they say, great guy, boots in a triple? No, they say, look, he lost the first four on favorites. That drove down the odds on himself and must of made him a bucket of cupcake.

Reporter — Jockeys are not sportsmen or like athletes. The horse doesn't tell the people who bet on him why he lost. The jockey has to do the talking and sometimes he has to talk pretty fast.

Clocker — There's a kid around here who has a new line of talk for emergencies, for when they get him backed in a corner with a razor on his throat. "Gentlemen," he says, "you must remember, after all, a horse is only an animal." That stops them.

Must Be Horse Crazy
Reporter — (Shaking his head)—A kid has to be really horse crazy to go into the jockey racket.

Then, the following Saturday after that, in the Widener cup, Arcaro is on the Rhyme. "Here's one time I hope the best horse doesn't win," he says to me before the race. On the stretch, there's a bottleneck you couldn't get a beehive shot through and all the fellows are clustering up, waiting for the opening. The opening never comes and Arcaro just kneels The Rhyme over to the far side and goes the long way around and is collecting the check while those other guys are still looking for the opening.

Reporter—Hands knees and head. I'll make a note of it, that that's what's needed.

Trainer — They use a saddle, too, and under it you will frequently find a horse — North American Newspaper Alliance

AHS and LaSalle High School Open Season Friday

City Teams Will Help To Launch Conference Race

Fort Hill's Sentinels Bow 14-3 to Massanutten in Lid-Lifter

Allegany and LaSalle high school teams will open the 1942 season Friday afternoon in contests which will launch the race for the Tri-State Interscholastic Conference championship.

Both local clubs will go out of town for lid-lifters with Coach Hubert Radcliffe's Allegany tussling with Hyndman high in the Pennsylvania town and the Explorers invading Paw Paw, W. Va., for a tussle with John Marra's Paw Paw high combination.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels, who will defend the city title against Allegany and LaSalle, opened their season Saturday at Woodstock, Va., dropping a 14-3 tussle to the Massanutten Military Academy outfit. Fort Hill won't launch its conference campaign until next Tuesday, April 28, when the Hilltoppers entertain Hyndman.

The Tri-State Conference will operate this season with one team less than last spring. Beal high of Frostburg having decided to abandon baseball for at least one year. All of the other conference members—Allegany, Fort Hill, LaSalle, Paw Paw and Hyndman—are holdover clubs.

Cecil Grimes Pounded

Allegany will begin firing on the home front Tuesday, April 28, when it takes on Paw Paw. LaSalle won't stage its home opener until May 5 when it opposes Fort Hill in the first intra-city game of the season.

Both Allegany and LaSalle will play only conference games and Fort Hill will take part in only three contests outside the circuit. Nearly all of the schools in the district have curtailed schedules because of the transportation problems brought about by the war and several have given up the sport entirely.

Coach Cavanaugh's Sentinels were easy victims for Massanutten and Pitcher "Sandy" Sandiano, who allowed the Cumberlanders only six hits over the nine-inning route.

Cecil Grimes, dean of the Fort Hill mound staff, held Massanutten scoreless for three innings but was touched for two runs in the fourth and five in the fifth and left the game after developing a sore arm in the sixth.

Frostburg State To Open

Centerfield Stefanik and First Sacker Herron were Massanutten's heavy sluggers, each getting three hits. One of Stefanik's blows went for three runs. Sandiano, in addition to sparking on the peak collected two blows and drove home four tallies. None of the Sentinels got more than one sock.

In other games this week, the Moorefield High Yellow Jackets will open their season by opposing Circleville at Moorefield. Hyndman will meet at Schellsburg (Pa.) high and Paw Paw will play at Capon Bridge in contests tomorrow. Frostburg State's tossers will lift the curtain Wednesday by battling Indiana State Teachers at Indiana.

Giants' Melton

Tops Braves, 5-2

Towering Southpaw Becomes First New York Hurler To Go Route

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—Cliff Melton, the towering southpaw who generally suffers harsh treatment here, became the first New York Giants' pitcher to go the distance this season today when he turned back the Boston Braves, 5-2, with a five-hit performance.

The Giants clinched the game in the first inning against the veteran Jim Tobin by clubbing him for four hits, including doubles by Johnny Mize and Harry Danning, for their first three tallies.

The Braves then pressed four relief pitchers into service and the Giants were held under control until the fifth, when Mize again connected for a two-bagger during a two-run rally against George Diehl, who was relieved by Lefty Warren Spahn.

Frank Demaree, who connected against Melton twice, scored the first Boston run in the second when he doubled, took third on a wild pitch and romped in after Tony Cuccinello fled out. Chet Ross's pinch-hit two-bagger and Lou Grepp's single gave the Braves their second run, credited to Tommy Holmes, who ran for the former.

Used to It by Now

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Bob Ufer, University of Michigan crack quarter-miler, has had his nose broken five times, once by a baseball bat once when a brick tumbled from a building under construction, and three times in football.

PASTOR WINS 12TH STRAIGHT BOUT

A jolting left by Bob Pastor, right, snaps Jimmy Bivins back on his heels during the 10-round bout in Cleveland Arena. After Bivins had floored the New Yorker twice in the first round, Pastor came back to take the decision, his 12th straight victory.

The Derby Tangle

Hope springs eternal in the Derby pickers' brains (for about two weeks) this time each April. This year isn't much different except for a deeper loyalty to earlier choices.

Those supporting Alsab and Sun again six weeks ago are even keener about their selections at this date. Those giving Apache, Devil Diver, Requested, Bless Me, and others a chance to win have refused to weaken.

Others out on a shopping spree for better odds still refuse to be stampeded today any of the favorites. There are more than a few smart players in this group who still call this next derby a wide open tango where anything can happen.

The Big Three

A short while back we became entangled with one of the keener derby selectors who didn't like Alsab, Sun, Again or Requested.

"Pick some entry to beat these three," I said.

"They'll be beaten," he answered, "but I can't name the horse now. Wait a while longer."

I called him again yesterday.

"I still don't like the three favorites," he told me, "but I'm still guessing."

This 1942 derby in the bluegrass country will have them guessing up to the start of the race.

I still figure Ben Jones and his Calumet starters will be something to crowd back. Jones will have at least two starters ready for this test, and both will be good.

Ben's favorite has been Sun Again for over a year. And Ben hasn't weakened yet.

Two Managers

Some weeks back we offered a major league prediction that still stands. This prediction was that Mel Ott and Lou Boudreau, two new managers, would turn in high-class jobs, no matter where their teams happen to finish.

Those who look only to results may soon disagree. But any jolting the Giants or Indians may have to take later on shouldn't be charged to either Ott or Boudreau, both of whom are smart. They have worked harder for winning success than any two managers in the game. Well, anyway, just as hard.

One Bad Guess

At the last Kentucky derby, back in early May 1941, a group of turf writers decided that that would be the last big show—a show large enough to attract as many as 60,000 spectators.

There seems to be a good chance now that this prediction will take a flop.

In spite of all the travel handicaps, brought on by the greater needs of war, the 1942 derby will just about match the best from past years. One way or another a race horse follower finds the road to the track.

There was more than a little doubt about any racing success at Maryland and New York tracks when April arrived. Both states got under way with crowds and betting well beyond any normal expectations.

How much longer will it all last? The future has a way of taking care of itself and supplying correct answers in place of hazy guesses.

Revision

I shot a golf ball into the air. It fell to earth. I know not where.

But I can say by yale and hill I'm looking for that nugget still.

"The Giants have everything except pitching." Which is like saying a bank has everything except money.

It might surprise a lot of people, except ball players, to know how many illegal spitters pitchers are throwing in what you might call crucial spots. There are times when the spring and summer air is laden with moisture.

Looking over the club standings today one suddenly recalls the fact that last May the New York Yankees were seven games back of the Cleveland Indians. It's a longer way to October than it is to Tipperary.

Sports Writers Pick Alsab To Capture Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 19 (AP)—Alsab, the bargain colt of Al Sabath, is a 3 to 2 choice among the nation's sports writers and radio sportscasters to win the sixtieth renewal of the Kentucky Derby here May 2.

Of the 515 writers and announcers who participated in the poll, 209 picked Alsab and 131 chose Requested. It was announced today. The poll was sponsored by Col. Matt J. Winn of Churchill Downs, home of the racing classic.

Bless Me, Col. E. Bradley's lone derby nominee, rated the show spot. He polled sixty-four votes. Other leaders included Sun Again, with thirty-eight, Devil Diver with twenty-three, With Regards, fifteen, Apache, twelve. Only nineteen of the 150 horses nominated for the derby were mentioned as possible winners.

However, Menke, who has been conducting similar contests here since 1938, said the "majority horse" never has won the derby. Our books was picked by the writing and talking experts last year, when Whirlaway won.

New Formation

PHILADELPHIA—Ray Morrison, Temple university's football coach, spent the winter planning a somewhat revised attack for his 1942 Owls. The offensive formation, which will be the chief stock-in-trade for Temple next fall, is neither a single nor double wing-back, nor is it a "T," but rather a combination—if such is possible—of all three. Morrison calls it his "A-square, B-square formation."

Reds Shade Cubs 2-1 in 14 Innings Despite Errors

Bruins' Passeau Pitches No-Hit for Seven Frames

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds committed eight errors, were held hitless by Claude Passeau for seven and one-third innings but won today's game from the Cubs, 2-1, in the fourteenth inning, before 11,230 fans.

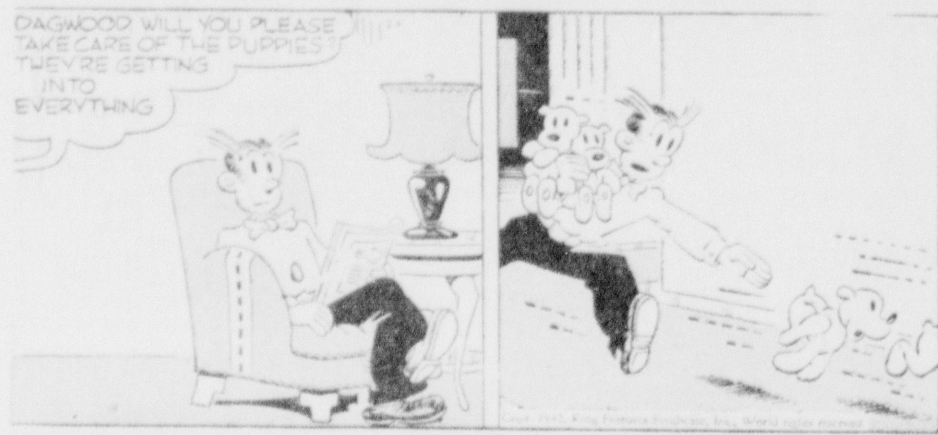

None of the Redlegs' misplays figured in the Cubs' lone run, scored in the sixth inning. Cincinnati tied the score with a run in the ninth aided by Shortstop Len Merullo's error and then won out in the fourteenth on three hits and a fly.

Passeau held the Reds to no hits and two walks until one was out in the eighth, when Harry Craft singled. In the ninth the Cub rightshander was touched for hits by Lonnie Frey and Gee Walker, and Merullo erred on Bert Haas's grounder to fill the bags. Frank McCormick then fled to deep left and Frey scored the tying run.

Joe Beggs, who succeeded Paul Derringer on the mound for Cincinnati in the eighth, kept the Cubs in check with three hits the rest of the way. In the Reds' fourteenth, Walker and Frank McCormick singled to fill the bases with none out and after Haas was out at the plate on Chuck Allen's infield grounder Craft brought Walker home with a long fly to count the winning run. "The Authority on Authorities."

FULL effectiveness of some card combinations cannot be assured unless you get the opponents to lead that suit. This is so when you have the ace and king opposite each other in your hand and dummy, with the queen and jack missing, but also possess the cards immediately below them. Then a single lead of the suit by the opponents assures you three top tricks in it. Likewise, if they hold the queen, jack and ten, one of them having four cards, a single lead of the suit by them gives you three of the four tricks in the suit.

3♥ Pass 5♥

North's slam invitation of 5♥ was made at two duplicate tables on this deal, and refused by South, who had to do his work right in order to make the contract. At each table West launched the defense with the club K to the A and then South tossed his remaining club on two top spades. Then the play differed, one declarer making the contract and the other being set.

The unsuccessful South next sent a heart to the A, ruffed the returned club, took two more hearts, then broke the diamonds. He led the 2 to the 9, taken by the 10. East returned the spade Q for a heart ruff, and the diamond 5 was led to the A. The 7 was covered by the J and K, but then the 8 lost the setting trick to the Q.

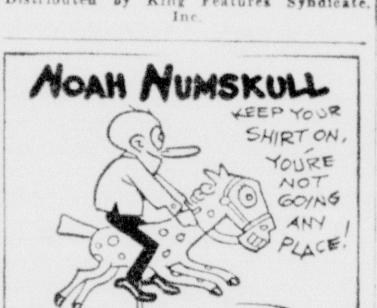

The winning declarer did what was necessary by eliminating both spades and clubs before breaking the diamonds, so that East would have nothing to return but a diamond at the end. To the fourth trick he led the spade 10 and trumped, then the heart 6 to the A. After ruffing the club J, he sent another heart to the Q and ruffed the club 9. The heart K drew East's last trump, leaving him only diamonds. Now the diamond 2 to the 9 was won by the 10. No matter what East returned now, the declarer would get the rest of the tricks. East selected the Q, which was won by the A, leaving a tenace of the K-8 over the Q-4, so that the finesse was a winner.

If East leads the spade K, A and 2 against North's 4-Spades on this deal, how should declarer play to take an extra trick?

Police Save Life Of Boy Trapped Under Sand Pile

Three Officers Revive Donald Matthews, 12, with Resuscitator

The life of Donald Matthews, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Matthews, of 937 Maryland avenue, was saved yesterday by three city policemen who revived him with a resuscitator after he had been trapped beneath a big pile of sand.

The Matthews boy and several playmates were digging tunnels beneath the pile of sand located near the B. and O. Bolt and Forge plant near Williams street. The sand pile was damp and while the Matthews boy was in the tunnel the sand collapsed, trapping him under the heavy pile.

Extricated by Neighbors

Attracted by the other children, neighbors nearby residents who called the police department. Patrol driver John Newhouse was the only officer at the station besides the desk sergeant and he took the police department resuscitator to the scene.

Desk sergeant George Deffenbaugh sent out an alarm over the radio and Sgt. Raymond Johnston and Officer Luther L. Youngblood rushed to the aid of Officer Newhouse. When the police arrived the Matthews boy had been extricated from under the sand pile and had been placed on a large piece of planking.

Sgt. Johnston and Officer Newhouse said the boy showed no signs of life and his breathing had stopped. After the resuscitator had been applied for about ten minutes the boy recovered consciousness and began to breathe again.

The officers asked some of the spectators to bring hot water bottles and blankets to place around the Matthews boy and within a few minutes they were deluged with the requested articles, they said. The boy was then taken to Allegheny hospital in the police ambulance.

Boy Admitted to Hospital

Police said the Matthews boy's eyes, ears and nose were clogged with particles of sand when they arrived on the scene. After treatment at the hospital the boy was admitted for observation and his condition was reported to be "fine" by hospital attaches last night.

Quick action by the police officers in reviving the boy received loud praise from physicians and hospital attaches. It was remarked that police have saved several persons' lives within the last year by using the resuscitator.

Two Men Arrested On Way to Wedding

Tangle with Law at Grantsville when Their Car Gets Caught over Wall

Two Eckhart men on their way to a wedding early Sunday morning got into a little difficulty with the law in Grantsville.

As related by Trooper Graydon S. Dunlap, the men, James William Parry, driver of the car, and Leroy Starkey, a passenger, thought they were on the wrong route to Thomas, W. Va., scene of the wedding, and turned around in Grantsville.

Unfortunately, they drove around a residence through an alleyway and on their way out to the highway again were "hung up" on a wall when the front wheels dropped over the wall end and the car rested on the chassis.

Parry got out of the machine to see what was the matter and toppled to the pavement on his head. Trooper Dunlap said. He suffered several head cuts. Parry will receive a hearing on two state motor law violations before Magistrate Charles Zeller, in Grantsville, Saturday. Zeller is charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Woman Is Struck On Highway near Big Savage Inn

Dalton Shrock, 19, of Meyersdale, Pa., is held in the county jail pending an investigation by state police. He is accused of being the driver of an automobile which struck Mrs. Annie Welsh, 50, who resides near Big Savage Inn, on Route 40, late Saturday night.

The woman was admitted to Miner's hospital suffering from undetermined injuries. Trooper Harry Harrison investigated the case.

Crop Loans Are Now Available

Allegheny County Farmers May Get Financial Aid from Government

Stressing the need for increased production of farm crops this year, R. M. Thomson, regional manager of the emergency Crop Loan office in Baltimore, has announced that short term crop loans are now available to Allegheny county farmers.

A representative of the Baltimore office makes regular visits to Allegheny county, and farmers here who are interested are directed to inquire at the county agent's office in the court house at Cumberland.

"This office, which is a unit of the Farm Credit Administration, is co-operating with the food for freedom program," Thomson said, "and it is our aim to finance those farmers who are eligible so they may take advantage of cash prices for seed, fertilizer and other material necessary for the production of 1942 crops."

Thomson reported that the primary factors determining eligibility are the character of the applicant, his ability to take care of his crops and the acreage and crops to be grown.

"The security required is a crop lien on the particular crops to be financed," he added. "Loans may be obtained up to $400 at four per cent interest, and it is our policy to lend no more than the borrower can conveniently repay from his farming operations."

"Every effort is made to keep down the expense of the loans both to the borrowers and to the government. We insist upon a live-at-home program, and the borrowers are required to grow good gardens and maintain sufficient livestock to supply their own family needs."

Farmers in Garrett county are referred to the county agent's office at Oakland.

Dogs Running at Large Unlawful, Minke Warns

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke yesterday repeated his warning that it is unlawful for dogs to run at large or to hunt or pursue game from March 1 to September 10.

Minke said that several complaints have been received in recent days of dogs running at large, and he pointed out that conviction of the offense carries with it a fine of $5.

George Kear, of near Pinzel, was cited to appear in trial magistrates court at Grantsville today to face a charge of allowing his dogs to pursue game in violation of the law, the warden reported.

John J. McMullen Heads Democratic Finance Campaign

Named Allegheny County Chairman in Drive To Raise $1,500

Appointment of John J. McMullen as general chairman of the Democratic party's finance campaign in Allegheny county was announced yesterday by Joseph H. Griffin, chairman, following a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegheny county in the Windsor hotel.

Griffin said that McMullen was contacted and he agreed to serve as chairman of the county committee which will attempt to raise the sum of $1,500 to be used to defray expenses of the national campaign in the fall election.

McMullen played an outstanding role in the Red Cross finance campaign last year. He served as advance gifts chairman of the drive in which approximately $30,000 was raised in Cumberland.

The special drive for funds is made necessary this year because of the cancellation of the annual Jackson Day dinners here and in other cities throughout the country, due to the war. In past years these dinners netted the necessary funds for carrying on the Democratic national campaign.

In the fall election Maryland will elect among others six members to the House of Representatives and a governor. Those whose terms expire are Democrats. In fact 43 representatives from every state in the union will be elected this fall and with the Democrats now holding a big majority in the House the party will strive to retain those seats. The present House includes 226 Democrats and 161 Republicans.

Griffin pointed out that McMullen is given full authority to select his own committee as well as the chairman of the women's committee.

Garrett county is also asked to raise $1,500 for the national campaign, Griffin said.

LaSalle Players To Get Sweaters

Basketball Champions Will Be Rewarded Today at Assembly

In recognition of their excellent achievements during the 1940-41 season, members of the LaSalle high school basketball team will be rewarded with athletic award sweaters and certificates today at 1 p. m. at the school assembly in Carroll hall.

Eight members of the city championship team to be honored are William Hunt, Thomas Ford, Ned Stapleton, George Geatz, Johnny Small, John Morrissey, Raymond Schmutz and Robert Stakem.

The sweaters are Royal Blue with an interwoven basketball plus service bars go to make up the gold L. located in center-front of sweater. Gold bands are interwoven within the blue on the left arm, depending on the number of years each boy has played on the squad. On the right arm appears a basketball five inch emblem with the inscription "L.S.H. City Champions, '42."

Brother Dacian Stephen, principal, will address the assembly. Brother James, athletic director, will make the presentation of sweaters and Brother Gerald Justin, moderator of athletics, will present the certificates.

Police Arrest Man On Forgery Charge

Catesby Jones Is Ordered Held by West Virginia Authorities

A man who gave his name as Catesby Jones, alias Wayne L. Robertson, was arrested Sunday morning at 12:30 o'clock by Lieut. James Van, of the city police, and Corp. Harold Carl, Maryland State Police, for the Parkersburg, W. Va., police on a charge of forgery.

Jones, or Robertson, was nabbed at a local hotel after the Parkersburg police had asked that he be picked up for allegedly forging checks in the West Virginia city. Police said the arrested man posed as a United States Army engineer.

He gave a Washington, D. C., address and said he was 27 years old. Jones is being held in the county jail pending the arrival of West Virginia authorities to take him back to face the charges.

Baltimore Youth Is Arrested by State Police for Car Theft

A fifteen-year-old Baltimore boy was arrested last night by Trooper Charles McLane on a charge of stealing a car belonging to William H. Lehr, of Brooklyn, Md., on April 11.

The youth told police he took the car for a "joy-ride" and later decided to visit relatives in the Little Orleans section of this county. Sometime Friday night he wrecked the car on a country road near Little Orleans and the machine was badly damaged.

Investigation disclosed the youth had stolen the car. He is held in the city jail.

New Class To Start

A new class for air raid wardens will begin at 7:30 o'clock this evening at Davis Memorial church, Oldtown road, E. C. Lancaster, of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department, will be the instructor. Members are requested to bring the standard forty inch square bandage.

Work gets underway today on setting up the organization which will conduct Cumberland's 1942 Community Chest campaign. Harold W. Smith, Chest president, said yesterday.

Smith announced that Harry Morrison, of Howard T. Beavers and Associates, a firm that specializes in promoting fund-raising drives, will arrive today to assist in laying the groundwork for the campaign. It is also expected that a campaign headquarters will be selected within the next few days.

The actual general solicitation drive will not be held until the latter part of next month.

Walter C. Capper, well-known attorney, has been named general chairman for the campaign and is expected to announce his staff in the near future.

Groundwork for Chest Drive Starts Today

Seven members of Tonkaway Tribe No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will attend the Great Council of Maryland convention scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday at Snow Hill, Md.

Representatives from here include Ewald Ruchl, prophet; Stanley Burke, sachem; T. E. Poole, Ernest H. Hess, Raymond Burrell and Palmer Adams, past sachems, and Charles H. Schaab, keeper of records. The group plans to leave tomorrow.

At a meeting of the tribe, held yesterday at the Bedford street "wigwam," Palmer Adams was elected chairman of the games committee with Cecil Grimes as assistant.

Tonkaway Tribe will meet Sunday, May 3, for the purpose of approving a by-law which changes the regular meeting date from Sunday to Tuesday. A class adoption is scheduled for Sunday, May 17.

Hyndman Man, 74, Uses Shotgun To End His Life

Despondency over Ill Health Blamed for Suicide of A. J. Emerick

HYNDMAN, Pa., April 19—Apparently despondent because of ill health, Andrew Jacob Emerick, 74-year-old retired Baltimore and Ohio railroad trackman, shot and killed himself at his home here this afternoon.

Deputy Coroner Charles Yoho issued a certificate of suicide, placing the time of death at 1:30 p. m.

Emerick used a shotgun to end his life, placing the barrel of the gun against his neck in the garage of his home. His body was discovered later by members of his family, who said he had been in ill health for four months.

Emerick was a son of the late Jacob and Sarah Smith Emerick. He had been employed by the B&O for twenty-two years. He was a member of the Evangelical church.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Virgie Smith, Ellerslie, and Miss Emma Emerick Hyndman; three sons, Thomas, Samuel and Ross Emerick, all of Hyndman; two brothers, Harry Emerick, Boswell, Pa., and William Emerick, Ohio; a sister, Miss Mary Emerick, Pittsburgh; eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Zeigler funeral home.

Robertson Rites Scheduled Today

Pallbearers Are Announced for Funeral of Local Contractor

Pallbearers for Col. William H. Robertson, 70, president of the Cumberland Contracting Company, who died Saturday morning in his apartment at the Algonquin hotel, will be A. L. McCulloch, Kent P. Wees, Ivan Lichtenstein, Dr. A. G. Thurman, Dr. H. R. Williams, Robert C. Barnard, Charles J. Bruce and Charles Z. Heskett.

Services will be held this afternoon at the Lemper funeral residence, Greene street, with the Rev. David C. Clark, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal church, and the Rev. Dr. Hixson T. Bowersox, rector of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will officiate. The body will be placed in the Rose Hill mausoleum.

His death resulted from an acute hemorrhage, following a period of decline in health over a period of several years. He had recently returned from Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

Prominent Citizen

One of Cumberland's most widely known citizens, Colonel Robertson was born in Brooklyn, New York, on August 19, 1872. As a young man, he engaged in the construction business, and he successfully carried on this business in Brooklyn until August, 1917, at which time he came to Cumberland to investigate some work which was proposed to be done in this city; and he liked Cumberland so well, that he decided to move here and engage in business. He founded the Cumberland Contracting Company, and carried on this business actively, together with Philip J. Arendes, who came from New York with him, and Earl C. Robertson, a native of Cumberland.

Col. Robertson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Winter Robertson, and two sisters, who reside in Brooklyn, namely, Mrs. Hattie Steuson and Mrs. Maude Gibson, and two nieces, Miss Dorothy Winter, Brooklyn, New York and Mrs. Leonard C. Harry, Elizabeth, New Jersey, and one nephew, George Winter, Brooklyn, New York.

Active in Civic Affairs

Col. Robertson took an active interest in civic matters and was widely known for his extensive generosity and magnanimousness. He was beloved by citizens in all walks of life. He was the first life member of Cumberland Lodge B. P. O. of E. No. 63, a director of the Cumberland Fair Association and a member of the Cumberland Jockey Club. His interest in fine horses and good horsemanship had existed throughout his life, and he was identified as one of Cumberland's foremost sportsmen. As an owner of horses, in his younger days he had raced his own stable at Belmont and other nationally known tracks.

The Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company was incorporated last month, with the incorporators listed as Edmund S. Burke, Alan P. Eggleston and William C. Walsh.

Officers of the new enterprise are E. S. Burke, president; A. P. Eggleston, vice-president and treasurer; and H. H. McCloskey, secretary and assistant treasurer. Directors, besides Burke and Walsh, are P. W. Litchfield, P. E. Leroy and H. V. Hillman.

Road Improvements Planned in County

Location of War Production Plant Here Brings Action by Governor

Held in abeyance pending the award of a $5,000,000 war production contract to the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company, bridge and road improvements in the Cumberland area will get underway soon, according to a weekend announcement by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor.

Friday's action by the War department in awarding the contract, calling for the Kelly-Springfield to install and operate a war production plant was followed Saturday, O'Connor said, by his own order to the state roads commission to begin work on previously-discussed improvements.

Included in the work, O'Connor reported, will be strengthening of a bridge, near the defense plant, to carry the increased traffic. He said engineers and army officials recently completed surveys of the necessary improvements and the state has agreed to assist in the undertaking.

The governor lauded the work of the State War Industries committee, appointed by him in January to secure defense contracts for Allegheny county. Included on the committee were E. S. Burke, Kelly-Springfield president; Attorney General William C. Walsh; Fred T. Smith, Celanese Corporation plant manager; George A. Meyers, president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council; and Isaac Hirsch, bank director and hide dealer.

Walter W. Clay, Local Detective, Taken by Death

Pioneer in Finger Printing for Crime Detection Dies in Hospital

One of Cumberland's outstanding citizens, Walter W. Clay, 68, died Sunday morning in Allegheny hospital where he had been a patient since April 12. Mr. Clay had been in ill health for over a year.

A native of Cumberland, he was long connected with law enforcement agencies and prior to his death operated the Business Men's Protective Association. A former deputy sheriff of Allegheny county he served under two sheriffs in this capacity.

He was county investigator under J. Philip Roman when the latter was state's attorney for this county. Mr. Clay was one of the first men in this section to master the use of fingerprinting in crime detection when that science was first used.

In Many Famous Cases

While a deputy sheriff he participated in the investigation of the famous Elloser "murder" case in this city. The strange death of Miss Elloser and her fiancé the night before their wedding attracted nationwide attention. It was later solved and death of the two was attributed to monoxide poisoning from a gas stove.

Long-time associates of Mr. Clay also remarked how he rounded up two confidence men who fleeced several Allegheny county men of over $10,000 in a fake gold mine stock sale.

Besides his detective agency he also was special agent for the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad. During the last World war he was traveling fuel inspector for the B. and O. railroad. Stories of his solving various crimes in this county are many and he was said to have been a keen investigator with a long memory of crimes and criminals.

Aided Local Officials

Both the city and county police authorities said he was very helpful in aiding in the investigation of criminal cases in this section. Mr. Clay was a member of the Maryland Police Association, St. Patrick's Catholic church and several other organizations.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Margaret Conway Clay, he is survived by two sons, Walter A. this city; Joseph W. of Baltimore; two daughters, Mrs. Vincent P. Ingram, and Miss Mary C. Clay, both of Cumberland. Two brothers, William and Harry Clay, both of McKeesport, Pa.; and a sister, Mrs. Lucy Reynolds, of Baltimore. He was a son of the late Isaac and Elizabeth Davis Clay.

The body will be taken from Stein's funeral home to the home, 229 Columbia street, today. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church with the Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty officiating. The list of pallbearers is incomplete.
